Mayor Downey To Run For Reelection As Independent

Hoffman Estates Mayor Frederick Downey Saturday announced he will run for reelection as an independent, accusing local Republicans of trying to control presidential appointments and village employment policy.

Downey listed restrictions he said the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township (ROOST) placed on candidates for slating in the April village election, saying they were approved at a July ROOST executive board meeting.

Party officials denied they were trying to usurp control of village government, and said the points were recommendations, not requirements, and were not taken to a vote.

The restrictions Downey named were that presidential appointments to advisory boards and commissions, such as the plan commission and zoning board of appeals "must be submitted to ROOST for approval," and that "every effort should be made by the president and trustees to place Republicans in the various full-time positions of employment in the village."

DOWNEY ALSO ACCUSED all elected village officials, except Clerk Virginia Netter, of being "more concerned about catering to ROOST than fulfilling their obligations to the citizens of Hoffman Estates. To seek reelection with any of them would be hypocritical," said Downey.

He issued a plea for all residents of the village, Republicans, Democrats and independents, to assist in his reelection campaign.

Downey said he has "never inquired of the political affiliation of any candidate for an appointed position" setting the person's education, knowledge and experience as the sole criteria of appointments.

"All employments within the village are based upon merit," said Downey, predicting "to deviate from this system would doom this form of government and result in a lowering of the quality of services." He added he has "never attempted or secured employment for one person" and would not do so if reelected.

TOWNSHIP REPUBLICAN Committeeman Don Totten responded Saturday by saying the party wished only to be informed of vacancies on boards and commissions and to be permitted to recommend candidates for the openings.

Totten said he asked "the appointing officer to contact me for a list of persons." The president then would be expected to "try, if he can, to use that list. It was in no way binding, but advisory," said Totten. The party then would attempt to convince that person to become active in Republican efforts, thereby increasing the number of talented persons in the party, said Totten. After participating in a campaign, these persons are interested in working in the village, he said.

These persons are "as qualified or more qualified than some people he (Downey) has appointed," said Totten.

IF THE MAYOR did not find a qualified person on the list, or if the party could not submit a list, said Totten, then the mayor could "go ahead and fill it (the vacancy) in the regular way."

"If the party can't supply qualified persons, we don't want any part of it. It would destroy the credibility of village operations and of the party," said Totten.

GOP: Downey Seeking Bribes

Schaumburg Township Republican officials Saturday charged Hoffman Estates Mayor Frederick Downey with "attempting to secure bribes" in soliciting campaign fund contributions of $2,000 or more each from individuals, merchants and developers dealing with village government.

Committeeman Don Totten produced copies of a letter Downey wrote to an undisclosed businessman asking for a $2,000 donation for his campaign.

Downey admitted sending the letter, but denied it was a bribe attempt, saying the Republicans have solicited the same persons in their campaign fund drives. Some persons already have declined to contribute the funds requested, and this has been "okay with me," said Downey.

In the letter, Downey said, "As someone who has benefited from my administration in the past and should continue to do so in the future by my continuing as president of the Village of Hoffman Estates, a campaign contribution in the amount of $2,000 would be most helpful."

TOTTEN SAID HE knew of "five or six" other letter recipients, some of whom were asked for more than $2,000 and some of whom were asked for less.

"The reaction of some of the people who received the letter was to the effect he was attempting to secure bribes," said Totten, noting the dollar amount of donations requested.

Terming the letter "very threatening," Totten said it carried the "implication if a businessman does not cooperate he will suffer at the hands of the mayor." This threat "prompted us to look around. With the kind of unethical approach he is making we don't want him as our mayoral candidate," Totten said.

Totten said a rift between Downey, the village board and the party resulted because Downey's "primary motivation seems to be for money," citing a recent dispute over salaries for the mayor and

Plumber Pulls Men From School Job In Pact Spat

The plumbing contractor at Hoffman Estates High School will be pulling his men off the job today at the insistence of the Dist. 211 board of education.

The action comes as result of the general contractor at the school site contending R. C. Caruso Plumbing Co. of Hillside failed to perform according to contract.

Bob Caruso, owner of the plumbing firms, in turn, charges the general contractor, Tonyan Construction Co., is at fault.

Before today, Caruso refused to remove his crews, resulting in the board action at Thursday's meeting.

HANK TONYAN told the board he fired Caruso several weeks ago. Because of bad weather and a carpenter's strike, construction at the school was running behind schedule, he explained. To make up for lost time, additional men were added to the construction effort, but Caruso maintained only a minimal crew, delaying completing of the plumbing job, Tonyan added. He was backed by architect Wayne Fritch of the firm Unteed & Associates.

Caruso said Tonyan is at fault for plumbing and sewer delays. Plans for sewer installations and a retention pond, prepared by an unregistered engineer Tonyan hired, were rejected a year ago by the Metropolitan Sanitary District, Caruso contended.

Caruso said his engineer worked continuously trying to get approval, which finally came in August.

Constant flooding in the school's first level led to hazardous work condition for his men and repeated destruction of work his crews had already done, he added.

"Tonyan offered me only a small amount of money for the delay," said Caruso, adding he felt entitled to more. Tonyan consequently hired another plumbing contractor to do the work.

Caruso said he will go to court with his case and that he will pull his men off the job on the advice of his attorney.

Despite the dispute, Fritch said the building is expected to be closed in within two to three weeks. With the increased work force Tonyan believes he can meet the completion date set for next July.

COAXING HYMN MUSIC from an organ is Cheryl Lynn Noah's "greatest love," although it competes with crocheting, sewing and collecting stamps, coins and foreign dolls. These activities nearly carried her to a Miss Teen-age America title.

Plug Pulled On Com Ed Power Lines

Commonwealth Edison Co. has yielded to requests from residents of the Northview and Rosedale areas of Hoffman Estates and has abandoned a plan to install high tension power lines above ground on the south side of the Northwest Tollway.

Jack Stephens, northwest area district superintendent, Friday told village officials the firm will install the above ground lines on the north side of the tollway instead.

The decision was based on feedback after a meeting with property owners who objected to having the wires so close to their property, said Stephens.

Stephens told Mayor Frederick Downey and Plan Commission Chairman Richard Regan of the decision Friday.

"Our design plan for these new transmission facilities in the area is to construct overhead facilities on the north side of the tollroad," said Stephens. "Just exactly where, and where it will cross, and how great a distance along the tollroad, we don't know," said Stephens, explaining the firm will have to research those questions.

FACTORS OF property ownership and availability of land will determine the answers to those questions , said Stephens. Once the design plan is completed, the plan will be submitted to the Illinois Commerce Commission for approval. Stephens said this would be in mid or late 1973. Completion is anticipated in about the middle of 1975, he said.

Stephens noted the firm "had every intention, and we feel that we did this, to expose everything. It was not a situation where we were trying to slide or slip these transmission lines into the rear of these properties."

"Basically, we did ask the adjacent property owners to attend the meeting in which we described the proposal we had in mind. The idea of the meeting was to obtain attitudes. Based upon the feedback and the availability of a compromise we decided to alter this route," said Stephens.

The residents attended last week's village board meeting, asking the services of the village attorney, and made a formal board objection to the proposal to install the cables south of the tollway.

The residents objected for health and safety reasons, as well as on esthetic grounds, to the plan to put the cables on poles ranging from 75 to 90 feet tall in an 82-ofot easement owned by Northern Illinois Gas.

Finalist In U. S. Miss Teen Pageant

Cheryl's A 'Winner,' Prize Or No

by NANCY COWGER

A manager of the Conant High School cross country team is a girl, and a most feminine one at that.

Cheryl Lynn Noah, 15, of 114 Buckeye Dr., Hoffman Estates, was one of 35 young women in the United States who came close to winning the title Miss Teen-Age America of 1972.

Cheryl competed against thousands of other girls for the title. She entered in July and was informed in October that she was one of 175 semifinalists. Early in November she learned she was one of 35 chosen for finalist recognition.

Five of those finalists were chosen to attend the Miss Teen-Age America pageant to be held Nov. 25 at Fort Worth, Tex., and to be telecast nationwide by CBS.

WHILE CHERYL was not one of the magic five who are eligible for valuable prizes, she considers her competition for the title good experience and she is glad she entered the contest. To enter, she completed forms and a test and mailed them to contest sponsors.

"It was really fun to have the experience behind you," she said.

And she feels her involvement with the cross country team helped her to go farther than minor "also-ran" status in the competition. It is an unusual activity for a girl.

As manager "I do everything but hand

Aboard Van Couver

Navy Steward Apprentice David A. Stryszyk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Stryszyk, 386 S. Jeffery Ln., Wheeling, has reported for duty aboard the amphibious dock transport, USS Van Couver, at San Diego, Calif.

Dear Friends:

Back in the old days. when towns like ours were small, it was customary for the local funeral director to provide ambulance service.

But times change and specialized facilities become available from public and private agencies, taking over a service we once volunteered to offer

We therefore wish to inform you that our ambulance service will be discontinued as of midnight. November 15, 1972.

We are grateful for your many complimentary expressions of gratitude for the ambulance services we have rendered over the past 50 years. The agencies now at work in Arlington Heights will fully satisfy such needs as we direct our full attention to our primary mission - serving our neighbors in their time of bereavement.

But Sites 'Disappearing': Lahti

Harper OKs Campus Plan

by WANDALYN RICE

The Harper College Board of Trustees formally approved a long-range plan late Thursday that calls for purchase of a 100-acre second campus sometime next year.

Following adoption of the plan, which has been under consideration for several months, College Pres. Robert Lahti said he could not be more specific about when the site would be purchased or when a referendum would be held to raise funds for it.

"In 1973 we're going to have to face the issue squarely," Lahti said. "The site purchase is probably the most critical part of the plan because the rapid disappearance of 100-acre sites in this area."

Lahti said the board is looking at specific sites and has estimated the cost at between $15,000 and $30,000 an acre, meaning a cost of $1.5 million to $3 million.

LAHTI SAID THE State of Illinois will reimburse the college for 75 per cent of the cost of the site, but the money will not come until building starts. As a result, he said, the board will have to hold a referendum to provide for the full amount of the purchase price.

He added he was not sure whether the board would be able to take an option on a specific piece of property before the referendum or not. "There is some question about whether we have the authority to take an option," he said. "We will follow the guidance of our attorney in that matter."

According to estimates in the long-range plan, Harper expects to be serving 33,332 full and part-time students by 1995, compared to 10,712 students this year.

Last month the board was told it could either choose to buy a second campus or plan to build high-rise buildings on the present campus, at Roselle and Algonquin roads, to accommodate the increased enrollment.

THE LONG-RANGE plan, while calling for buying a site in 1973, does not call for any building on the new site until 1978.

The present Harper campus is a 200-acre site and is scheduled to be completed by 1980.

Other recommendations in the long-range plan include a feasibility study on building a cultural center on the present campus and generally improving education and the ease of transfer in and out of the college.

Harper College Board Member Nugent Resigns

Harper College Board member D. Eugene Nugent announced his resignation last week.

Nugent, of Palatine, has served on the board since April, 1971. He said he will leave the board before the end of the year in order to take a job in Cleveland, Ohio, as director of operations of ITT Service Industries Corp., a division of International Telephone and Telegraph.

Nugent said the job is "a great opportunity for my family and myself. Unfortunately it has become necessary for me to tender my resignation to the board."

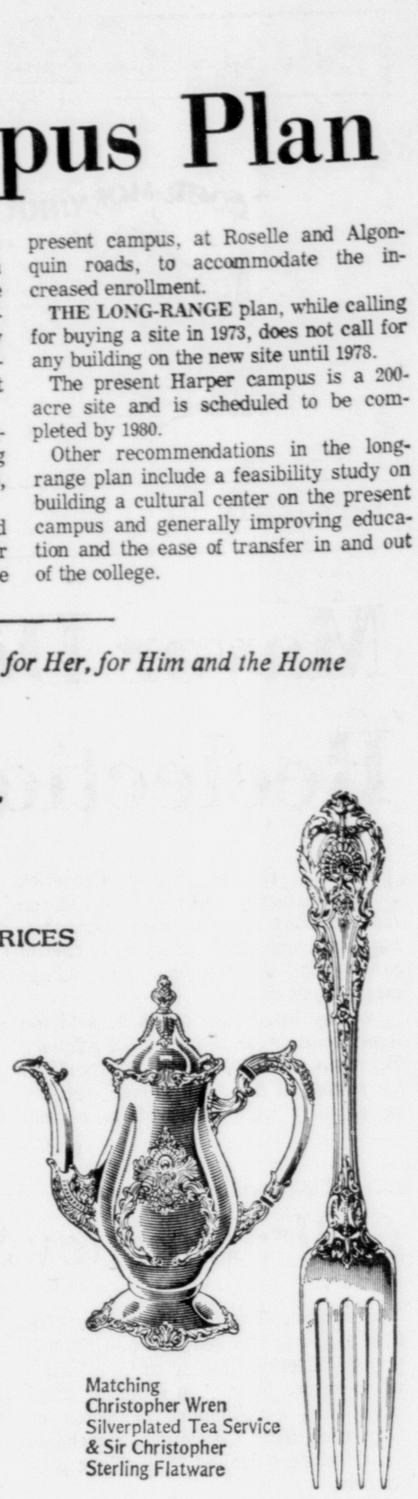

He added, "I've enjoyed it immensely; I've learned a great deal and I hope I've contributed along the way."

Board Pres. Jessalyn Nicklas expressed "extreme regret" at Nugent's resignation and said the board will accept letters of application from persons interested in filling the position.

The board may appoint a person to fill the vacancy until April when the regular election will be held. At that time, someone will be elected to fill the remaining year of Nugent's term.

Between the Lines

Another (Ugh!) Election To Go

by NANCY COWGER

You'd think the politicians would give us all a respite from one campaign before swinging full force into another.

But it appears that's a false hope, generated by a naive sense of looking at things as they should be, instead of as they are.

In Hoffman Estates, for example, the real campaigning got off to a noisy start before the national ballots even were cast. The proof of that was Monday's village board meeting, when candidates raised their colors with a vengeance and a typical election year eagerness to blow with prevailing winds.

The over-all poor performance by a generally responsible village board left a sour taste in the mouth. Few people left that meeting with their dignity intact.

SOME OF THE political bombast, although certainly not all of it, came during the verbal battle with the audience over high tension lines. It was then that such comments were made as "I don't care if it costs 20 times as much, I want those lines underground" and "They'll either put them underground or route them around Schaumburg Township."

Someone better worry about cost. You and I will have to pay the bill.

Equally irresponsible was the suggestion by one trustee that action against the ComEd plan definitely would be forthcoming tonight.

The village board does not yet know if it has any power in the matter. Making promises and inflamatory statements without that knowledge is meaningless, and the trustees know it. But the comments were sure to earn them some votes before the crowd. And the trustees obviously were counting noses as the equivalent of a ballot check. If it turns out they have no power to act, their promised opposition could come back and slap them in their collective faces.

The trustees also came off badly when they agreed to ship the investigative chores to their plan commission, rather than to their attorney and village manager, the proper persons to find facts and report them. Supposedly, the plan commission was to consult with the attorney, but its recommendations announced Thursday give no indication this was done.

IN HIS magnanimous offer to take on the job, Plan Commission Chairman Richard Regan put himself in the White Knight savior role, appearing to court the support and perhaps future votes of the audience.

Two trustees in particular abandoned dignity Monday over another matter, although it did not appear to be politically motivated. Mrs. Diane Jensen nearly broke into tears, and certainly lost her composure, when the board turned down her request to relocate the recycling center. Mrs. Jensen did herself no favor, but even worse, added credibility to the contention of many who derogate women in general by saying they are too emotional to hold positions of responsibility.

Bruce Lind also tarnished his image when he involved himself in a petty verbal dispute with the mayor over when trustees might comment on matters before the board.

Suggested he could rule Lind out of order, Lind's implied threat of "you just try it" was a childish insistence on having the last word.

Downey himself presented a dissatisfactory image Monday, with his repeated answers of "I don't know" to every question on the high tension wires. Downey should have known something. The citizen interest was well publicized, as was the intent of the esidents to come to the board for help.

All in all, the meeting was a general disgrace. The Hoffman Estates Village Board previously has shown more of a tendency for restraint and responsibility.

Let's hope the coming campaign will not continue to interfere with what we know the officials are capable of doing — conducting themselves with the composure and dignity their offices deserve.

Cheryl Winner —Prize Or No

out the towels," said Cheryl. She became active with the team because she felt it was not getting its fair share of recognition. "Football gets all the publicity," she said. Her contribution to the team effort is putting up posters, keeping scores, attending and assisting at practices and a myriad of "endless little jobs," she said.

THE CROSS COUNTRY team is not Cheryl's only activity at school, however community and school involvement is one area the teenage queen sponsors emphasize. As Mrs. Donald Noah, her mother, noted, the contest involves "brains more than beauty."

Cheryl also directed part of the decorations project for the Conant High School homecoming events this fall. She is a member of the school's dance club, and has worked as a non-paid student nurse monitor at the school for two years.

Cheryl also has made her presence felt in Hoffman Estates in other ways. She may someday aspire to politics -- at least she is a good walker. She participated in the Danny Thomas Muscular Dystrophy Drive to raise money for St. Jude Hospital, and marched 30 miles in the Walk for Hunger. She also earned the Hoffman Estates Lions Club award for the top feminine money collector in the club's Candy Day for the Blind.

Cheryl is an accomplished organist and often provides special music for the congregation of Our Saviours United Methodist Church. She also is active in the church's young life group and its New Generation youth ministry.

Donating her time for other persons is nothing new to Cheryl. As a 6-year-old, she sold Christmas cards and donated her profits to the S. S. Hope, world-traveling medical ship.

WHEN SHE IS OLDER, Cheryl hopes to make a more personal contribution to youngsters who need special attention. She would like to be a teacher of handicapped or deaf children. While she has not yet chosen a college, she expects to begin thinking about a selection in the coming year.

Although the Miss Teen-Age America pageant is more concerned with community involvement than attractiveness, Cheryl also is a likely candidate for beauty pageants. And she does not feel the women's liberation aversion to them. "They're nice, if you're good-looking," she said. "And you still get a scholarship" if you win, she noted. The Miss Teen-age America winner will receive a $10,000 four-year scholarship, as well as $5,000 in personal appearance fees and 50 shares of stock in each of two firms, Dr. Pepper Co. and Cedar Point Inc., sponsors of the pageant.

While they agree these prizes would be a wonderful asset to any young woman, their daughter included, Mr. and Mrs. Noah are not disappointed Cheryl will not receive them.

"She didn't win. But by golly, we never dreamed she'd come that close," they noted with a grin of pride.

Woman's Club To Get Key Wednesday To Village Hall

The key to the old village hall will be turned over Wednesday to the Hoffman Estates Woman's Club.

Village Trustee Bruce Lind will formally charge the club with management of the building at the club's regular monthly meeting.

Mrs. Michael White, chairman of decorating, will transform the meeting room in the old building to one blue and white in color with a Victorian decor.

French blue tie-back draperies with white sheers will be used as window treatment and a donated Victorian sofa will be reupholstered in blue tones.

Blue-and-white flowered wallpaper will appear above white wainscoating. A crystal chandelier will take the place of current fluorescent bulbs.

"WHILE A carpeting in blue tones is being considered, the discovery of hardwood floors under some tile., under the current indoor-outdoor carpeting is something to think about," Mrs. White said.

"Another discovery is the brick fireplace, which is in working condition," she added. The club will use gas logs donated by Mrs. Darrell Feaker.

The partitions in the original kitchen and butler's pantry have been removed and the swinging door leading into the meeting hall will again be used instead of being boarded up.

The room will be decorated with paintings donated by local artists. Local artists are asked to donate a painting, watercolor, or ink sketch, for each of the other rooms. These will be decorated in earth tones of brown, avocado, orange and beige.

Mrs. White may be contacted at 894-3571.

THE CLUB also needs donations of white paint, wallpaper, folding chairs and carpeting.

The Hoffman Estates Jaycees will have a permanent office in the building, as well as the Community Mental Health Association.

The second floor will house five offices and two craft rooms.

Open House Tomorrow

Schaumburg High School will sponsor its third annual open house tomorrow from 7:15 to 9:41 p.m. for parents of the school's students.

Each parent will follow his child's class schedule for 12-minute class periods to allow time to meet teachers.

In addition, special programs are planned by the physical education, guidance and medical departments. Other departments will have displays and girls from home economics classes will model clothes.

Parks Try To Implement Plan To Curb Vandalism

Preliminary plans soon will be put into action by Schaumburg Park District Comr. John Brandenburg to curb vandalism to park district facilities.

Brandenburg said letters will be sent to principals of all area school asking to arrange a meeting with student groups to discuss the problems and methods of stopping vandalism. By approaching the problem through the schools, it is hoped the youngsters will take part in solving the problem, he added.

Park district officials have noted in recent months that newly installed playground equipment and other park facilities have been damaged by vandals.

Brandenburg suggested the possibility of establishing volunteer patrol groups to watch park facilities.

He hopes the meetings with students will produce other suggestions for solving the problems.

IN A related matter, Comr. Michael Doherty reported that a statewide park commissioners seminar next spring will examine the vandalism problem as its major topic.

Doherty, who attended a recent planning session in Champaign, said park officials throughout the state have expressed concern about the topic.

"Hopefully, we will be able to hear from experts who might be able to explain the reasons behind vandalism," he said.

The district also announced the donation of a regulation size trampoline and a large trailer from two anonymous donors. The trailer will be used for storage of park district maintenance equipment, according to parks supervisor Ron Dudley.

trustees.

TOTTEN ALSO SAID the Republicans solicit funds from the same sources Downey wrote to, but the party does not suggest any threat.

Downey said he did not remember how many such letters he sent, although "I probably sent out quite a few." He said he had been told by the party it "would take $6,000 to $9,000 to finance a campaign," although he never saw a statement of what has been spent in past campaigns.

Totten indicated the party spent $1,964 to elect an entire slate in 1969, and $1,729 to elect its 1971 slate.

Downey noted he has never been involved in campaign financing before, and said, "I have no idea" how much it should cost. He also said he did not feel he threatened anyone. He selected letter recipients on the basis of their interest in the village and good government, and agreement with his philosophical viewpoint, he said.

China Has No Lawyers—But Then, It Needs Very Few

by NORMAN E. ISAACS
Special to the Herald
(Last of Five Parts)

SHANGHAI — There are no crowded court dockets in China. Even if there were you wouldn't find out because this wouldn't be "useful news," as one Chinese news correspondent tried to explain.

The only police we've seen are traffic cops, men and women. What's most intriguing is that there are no lawyers.

This fascinated me so that part of every one of the 23 days here was spent in some way asking somebody about lawyers. No matter how it's been asked or where, the answers are uniform: No lawyers.

In totalitarian countries, of course, things often get done without announcement. Somebody on top passes the word and things happen. It's pure guess, but I think the lawyers were sidetracked into other occupations years ago. There used to be law schools in China, but everybody here acts puzzled when you ask the question about them.

They talk about the courts, but my impression is equally distinct that what they mean are decisions issued by the central Communist Party headquarters, made on the basis of recommendations from the different units in the society — "lane," "street," factory, farm team, brigade or commune.

TAKE IT THIS way: Shanghai has 11 million residents. The big crime month is August. Hsu Ching-hsien, the able, dynamic, 39-year-old vice-chairman of Shanghai's "revolutionary committee" (meaning he's the mayor) said, "Altogether in August we had 63 cases of graft, speculation and theft."

Murder? One case two years ago, said Hsu. A rape-murder. A man broke into the flat of a girl fellow-worker and throttled her. Hsu said the case was referred to the factory committee, weighed there, and the recommendation was carried out by "the court." It was execution by shooting.

Mayor Hsu said the man had been subverted by "imperialist porno books." You can put that down either as Communist propaganda, or as part truth because as a vast port of call for ships from the world over, Shanghai is a touchy security spot.

There's a strong streak of evangelist to Mao Tse-tung. There isn't any question that he's been trying to convince the Chinese they have the power to change the social environment through their personal behavior. It's hard to see how personal behavior is going to change Shanghai's pollution problem. It ranks with the world's worst.

At any rate, Mao succeeded to such a degree with the army (the People's Liberation Army) that the PLA obviously is accorded the most citizen-esteem of any military service on the globe.

MAO HAS BEEN preaching the same type of thing to all Chinese and this is the foundation of the basic honesty in public services, of the dedication to keeping things clean, of their talk about "serving the state," and their puritanism about sex.

As the historians have pointed out, just in the 70 years prior to World War I the Chinese had lived through five wars and five major rebellions.

The warlords' armies were hired bandits who lived through pillage and rape. Chiang Kai-shek's armies were led by arrogant, strutting generals out of the Whampoa military academy, more interested in their status and concubines than in public service.

Mao put together an army that he taught both politics and behavior. In 1947, the year before Chiang was driven off the mainland, Mao issued three main disciplinary rules: Obey orders, "don't take a single needle or piece of thread from the masses," "turn in everything captured."

He added eight points for attention: "Speak politely, pay fairly for what you buy, return everything you borrow, pay for anything you damage, don't hit or swear at people, don't damage crops, don't take liberties with women, don't ill-treat captives."

CAVE HOMES serve as residence for some 30,000 people in Communist China. In this one — in Yenan in North China — a woman cooks and tends to her children. These homes are carved from solid rock, and — like this one — include stone stoves and bed shelves. The living may be primitive, but fascinating.

YOU SEE SOLDIERS everywhere, khaki uniforms, red tabs on their collars. It's hard to tell officers from enlisted men because the uniforms look alike. One small difference seems to be that the officers' jackets have four pockets instead of two. They know the difference and that's what counts.

In a way, it's all one army; in another, there are two armies. One is on active duty, the other off duty. But no PLA ever doffs his uniform, whether he's working in factory or on the farm. Once he's in the PLA that's his everyday attire. Best comparison is to say that it's like a fellow joining our National Guard and then wearing his uniform from then on, no matter what he does or where he goes.

The PLA operates as a working arm for the people in countless ways. At the auto plant here we saw two-ton trucks lined up outside with PLA men at the steering wheels. The factory told us later that it had no way to deliver them to the government agency and the PLA had stepped in to do the job.

In this context of public service, it is little wonder that Mao was able, after the Cultural Revolution, to slide PLA men into every function in the society, many of them taking over as chairmen of the various operations. As reported earlier, this now seems to be in a phasing-out process.

It helps explain why people like Mrs. Wang Shu-tsen, a textile factory worker, asked what she hopes for her teen-age son, should answer briskly, eyes shining: "I would hope for him to be a PLA."

THREE YEARS AGO I was part of a similar journey to the Soviet Union. We traveled a wide arc, from Moscow and Leningrad, into the Ukraine and Georgia and out to Siberia. We heard the Soviets grousing about the Chinese; here, all we hear are Chinese damning the Russians up one side, down the other as "social imperialists."

China is touchy about Soviet power. Whether it's real fear of war, or simply a means of keeping the populace on patriotic toes, bomb shelters are being built everywhere. There is no attempt at being coy about it.

The Russians have a "love-hate" relationship with the U.S., like us, envy us, want to be like us, but at the same time fear us and suspect our motives. The Chinese don't seem to care. They are more self-contained, have their own pride, want to be taken for what they are, and exhibit no trace of envy or fear.

The Chinese strike me as a gentler people than those in the Soviet Union, softer-spoken, much less argumentative under questioning.

In Moscow, I recall a shouting match at the Novesti office (the over-all Soviet news service) over some line of questioning. In Peking we asked much more embarrassing questions, were given polite answers without any attempt at political polemics.

OVER-ALL, THOUGH, the newspaper systems are very similar. The big paper in China is People's Daily. It is read closely because that's how the party line is transmitted. The news agency is Hsinhua, which serves all of China's provincial press by modern telegraphic means; it also serves Associated Press and United Press International in the United States.

In Sian, talking with the editor, we asked if his paper published anything about our visit to his city. No, he said; we were foreign visitors and as such not a local story. He gestured at the Hsinhua correspondent for the area, said that if he sent a story to Peking and it came back over the wire, then he would consider printing it. He was neither embarrassed nor apologetic. This is the way things are.

Hsinhua is a government department and the agency's correspondents regard themselves as serving the regime. News of crime, or accidents, for instance, are not "news." A major flood or other natural disaster will be reported because this is something the government will want to know.

Mainly, the correspondents center on "useful" information, such as news about new factories, what is going on in industrial production, and how communes are doing in reaching assigned goals.

THERE IS A regulation that foreigners may not read the provincial papers. What the reason for the rule is something I never fathomed.

From Peking every day there also is issued a 6-million edition of a tabloid-sized newspaper called "Information Digest." Reportedly it contains news from all over the world, including excerpts of editorial comment from the U.S. and other Western countries.

Foreign diplomats in Peking know about the publication, but have never laid hands on a copy. Wherever we have gone, editors and public officials say matter of factly that they receive copies. Clearly, it is delivered (by the post office, as all the other publications are) to leading Party members.

Imagine a country where 6 million copies of a publication can be issued daily for years and which foreigners are not supposed to see and not a single copy ever goes astray! That's discipline.

JOHN KING Fairbank, one of the great authorities on China, has written that Maoism is "an inversion of Marxism." It may be, but the Chinese don care. As far as they are concerned, if Mao says it's Marxism that's what it is and there's no point debating it.

Whatever it is, it seems clear Mao has been driving to bring the peasantry and the educated professionals to closer understanding, if not leveling out. He zigs and zags, but this seems central to his thinking.

Every country has to have a bureaucracy of some kind and this one retains vestiges of the elitism Mao has so long despised. I say this without criticism because it's no secret that the United States has created one of the biggest and often most arrogant of administrative and bureaucratic machines. It only seems odd in this country because of the emphasis on egalitarianism.

Across the street here at the Peace Hotel in Shanghai (the famed, old, British-built, roach-infested Cathay), we can see people at a rooftop shop making do with the oldest kind of equipment.

Work benches look as if they were brought in from a scrap pile and nailed or tied together. If it will work, people here will keep it and get use out of it. It tends to give a surface impression of grinding poverty.

IT'S HARD TO square with restaurants like the Mansion House a mile away, or the Peking Duck and Horn of Plenty in Peking, where top men in government entertain foreign visitors in plush splendor, and crowds gather outside by the thousands to watch silently the grand comings and goings.

It makes youwonder if Mao Tse-tung's evangelistic preachings will survive his departure. After all, he's 79. Chou En-lai, whom some people call the greatest No. 2 man in history, is now 74.

What is now a great plus could turn out to be an immense minus — the army. An overly ambitious character in control of the PLA could move to grab everything. This is the role in which Mao and Chou now cast Marshal Lin Piao, who died with other top army figures in the mysterious Manchurian plane crash last year. They say Lin was fleeing to the Soviet Union after his plot to do away with Mao began to leak out. This episode isn't likely to be put together for years to come. Let's say it's true. If so, it simply underlines the point about the army's importance to China's internal political stability.

This aside, there isn't much question but that there are some extraordinarily able younger politicians in the wings, all apparently firm Maoists. Two of them are here in Shanghai — Yao Wen-yuan, 43, who is No. 4 in the Politburo, and Mayor Hsu, who is on the Central Committee. We didn't get to see Mr. Hao, but I can testify that Mayor Hsu is a fireball.

There are reported to be others around the country, all staunch Maoists likely to pursue the same general course when their time comes to run things. I emphasize that this is impressionistic reporting and needs to be read as one man's speculation.

CURIOUSLY, IN ALL these three-plus weeks nobody ever has raised the issue of Vietnam with us. The only time it has been discussed is when one of us has referred to it. They tend to shrug it off, as if it didn't matter — and as if they've been privy all along to what's been going on in the negotiations.

As far as our discussions have gone, the one and only major issue has been Taiwan. The message is explicit: Once the U.S. withdraws official recognition of Taiwan as a government and recognizes it as a part of China, formal relationships could come the next morning.

Gently, the word has been dropped here and there to the effect that some quiet conversations have been held by the Chinese with the younger Chiang, who is now running Taiwan. It's typical Chinese diplomacy. You can never quote anybody, but the thought is put across.

One final observation: I've said a number of times that the Chinese are but little interested in what goes on in America. But they did express a choice in the election; at least those who knew about it. President Nixon. They were careful how they put it, but we got the point.

Chou En-lai phrased it nicely when he said that the President's visit had been "helpful and constructive" and had paved the way for more collaboration. He said the Chinese understood America's problems and that they are, after all, a patient people.

McGovern is an unknown to the Chinese. They pronounce it "M'goo-v'n." Nixon is easier for them to pronounce. They've seen him. The leaders think they understand him and are confident they can work things out.

They'll even drink a "gambei" to that. It means "bottoms up."

Inside Communist China

Virtually sealed off to the rest of the world for the past 25 years, the People's Republic of China slowly has begun to allow glimpses into its cities and massive interior. One such glimpse was afforded recently to a specially picked 22-man delegation from the American Society of Newspaper Editors, taken on a 23-day, 4,000-mile tour. Among them was Norman E. Isaacs, currently professor of journalism at Columbia University's Graduate School of Journalism; former executive editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Times; past president of ASNE, and — since 1970 — a director of the Paddock Corporation and newspaper consultant to the Heralds. In an exclusive report for Herald readers, Isaacs has provided a personalized and detailed five-part account of his journey inside Communist China.

Dan Walker Joins Percy In '76 Presidential Picture

by BOB LAHEY

Inevitably, Gov.-elect Dan Walker already is being mentioned as potential presidential timber following his bucking of the Nixon tide and capture of the Illinois governor's mansion for the Democratic Party.

Walker is among four Illinoisans who could figure in the presidential and vice presidential sweepstakes of 1976.

Practically certain to have some degree of support for the Republican nomination for the White House is Sen. Charles H. Percy, despite his disclaimers.

Democratic Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III is a not unlikely contender for the vice presidential nomination — and perhaps even a longshot for presidential consideration.

The fourth name from the ranks of Illinoisans is former 13th District congressman Donald Rumsfeld, who may be elevated from his position of director of President Nixon's Cost of Living Council to a more visible cabinet post — such as secretary of Housing and Urban Development — in the coming shakeup of the administration.

WALKER'S VICTORY, achieved against the current of the Nixon landslide, cannot be overlooked by Democratic kingmakers.

Nor can the fact that he did it by himself, bypassing formal support not only of Mayor Richard J. Daley, but of Democratic county chairmen throughout the state.

His prominence as a presidential contender of course will hinge greatly upon his performance as governor and the degree to which he is projected onto the national scene in the next three years — but he has the basic ingredient already, the power to get votes.

While Stevenson is not widely viewed as an active candidate for the presidency, he is often mentioned as a likely choice for the No. 2 spot on a ticket with Sen. Edward Kennedy. More than one disappointed Democrat has been heard to observe during the McGovern debacle that the party could have walked away with the 1972 election on a Kennedy-Stevenson ticket.

WHATEVER MIGHT happen to Walker or Stevenson in regard to the Presidency obviously is dependent on the fate of Kennedy. If the Democratic nominating convention were held today, it would probably result in a unanimous nomination of the Massachusetts senator. But whatever he does, Kennedy cannot escape the fact that he became the front-runner in the Democratic race the moment the polls closed last Tuesday.

That is a long time before post time to go into the starting gate, and while four years might dilute the stigma of Chappaquiddick, many new perils must be avoided.

Should something happen to eliminate Kennedy from consideration, Walker and Stevenson are sure to be among a pack of contenders that certainly will be as big as the Democratic field early in this election.

The obstacle presented to Walker and Stevenson by Kennedy is parallel to the obstacle Percy faces in the presence of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew. With conservatives firmly in control of the party, Agnew now must be considered the most likely choice of the GOP for 1976.

THOUGH PERCY denies any concrete ambition for the White House, he is less than coy in indicating that he would not refuse a call to the presidency. He can be expected in the next three years to a.) seek an accommodation with the more conservative elements of his party, or b.) to maneuver "liberal" members (he prefers the label "moderate") into positions of power in the party.

A Percy candidacy would of course eliminate fellow Illinoisan Rumsfeld from consideration for the vice presidency. But the nomination of an easterner like Agnew, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York (many Republicans refuse to count him out, despite advancing age) could well accommodate Rumsfeld as No. 2. man.

Like the Democrats, the Republicans undoubtedly will have a host of presidential contenders, and Rumsfeld might well be a suitable candidate, despite some geographical difficulties, with such nominees as Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio, Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana, or Sen. William Brock of Tennessee.

Heralds Win Five 1st Place Awards

The Herald won eight awards — including five first places — in the fall newspaper competition of the Northern Illinois Editorial Association.

The awards, judged under the direction of the Northern Illinois University Journalism Department, were presented Friday on the NIU campus in DeKalb.

First place awards to the Herald included:

—Best Locally Developed News Story; to reporter Joann Van Wye for her stories detailing mismanagement of Rolling Meadows Park District funds;

—NEWSPAPER MAKEUP and Appearance; presented to Copy Desk Chief James Harvey for the general high quality of several issues submitted;

—Local Sports Writing; to Sports Editor Robert Frisk and staff for the general quality of their work;

—Photography Excellence; to the Herald photography staff, under Director of Photography Larry Cameron, for the overall quality of their work in several issues submitted; —Best Single Local Editorial; to Executive Editor Kenneth Knox for his editorial calling on the Buffalo Grove village president to either resign his village position or reject a position with a developer.

AWARDS TO THE Herald also included a second place in best single local feature for a story by Managing Editor James Vesely on the short, turbulent life of a young activist; a second place for sections on food and nutrition; and a third place for best women's section.

In the competition which the judges said drew more entries of higher quality than any previous NIEA contest, the Herald competed with other dailies throughout northern Illinois, with the exception of Chicago. The awards were accepted by Knox and Harvey, who also attended the NIEA fall seminar sessions.

In a weekly division of the NIEA competition, three awards were given to Paddock's Barrington Herald. They included a second place for photography excellence and third places in sports writing and makeup and appearance. Representing the weekly Heralds were Manging Editor Mike Larson and Sports Editor Bill Gowen.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am a 31-year old man, single and live at home with my parents. I work five days a week for a construction company and have a business of my own on the side. For over a year now I have had insomnia. I am unable to get a good night's sleep without taking a sleeping pill or aspirin or something to produce sleep. I don't know of anything that has been worrying me. I'm the type that can shake things off easily, but it seems that I am always turned on at bedtime, tired but just not sleepy.

I have lost so much sleep that it is beginning to show in my eyes. I look tired and I really am tired. Is there anything you can suggest for a good natural sleep without taking a pill? Could there be something physically or mentally wrong that I don't know about, such as nerves, smoking or other causes?

I have gone to doctors and they give me a check-up and tell me not to worry about it and give some medication to relax. One doctor told me about half of the world suffers from insomnia, but I know there must be a reason for my sleepless nights.

DEAR READER — There are many people who suffer from insomnia. I have received many letters from readers talking about what they have done to help themselves go to sleep. Perhaps the largest number of the methods recommended involved some form of relaxation. Many readers who are religiously inclined have written that they get a great deal of benefit out of reading the Bible and thinking of spiritual things before they go to sleep. Other people are able to go to sleep by reading until they are relaxed and go to sleep. Some have a snack before bed, which has its problems as far as calorie intake is concerned.

I suppose each person has to find his own best sleeping habits and they are just that — habits. A person who gets in the habit of having difficulty going to sleep will continue to have trouble.

My guess is that someone who is regularly employed and has a business on the side is probably an active individual who has enough things to think about that he just can't dispense with the day's business and relax enough to get a good night's sleep. I would suggest a good exercise program sometime earlier in the evening, well before the anticipated bedtime. Then establish a routine for going to sleep, such as a relaxing bath or shower. Then go to bed and read something to help you relax for a short time, lay the book aside put out the lights and let nature take its course. Make it a point not to have a habit of rehashing the day's events or tomorrow's problems before you go to sleep.

Eliminating stimulating drinks will help solve this problem for a lot of people. This includes elimination of coffee, tea and cola drinks.

In your case, I wonder if your social life is getting proper attention. With a full-time job and a business on the side, that may not leave enough time for healthy recreation and developing meaningful personal relationships in which you feel secure.

What's Status Of Harper 'Senate'?

by WANDALYN RICE

The Harper College Board and the president of the college's faculty senate clashed Thursday night over the issue of "status" and board-faculty communications.

The clash came as several board members made clear they would not accept a two-month-old proposal from senate president Thomas McCabe that he be allowed to sit in an advisory capacity to the board in the same way as the college's vice presidents.

In September, McCabe had asked the board to let him sit at the board table with the vice presidents and also asked that the faculty senate be given a permanent place on the agenda for reports. The board had postponed discussion of the issue at its October board meeting.

Thursday night Board Pres. Jessalyn Nicklas opened the discussion by reading a statement that methods had been established for communication between the faculty and administration. "It would be my feeling that we've had a good system of communication within the college," she said.

BOARD MEMBER Eugene Nugent agreed, adding that the college vice presidents "are resource people to Dr. Lahti (College Pres. Robert Lahti) who sits in advice and council of the board. I don't think there is a question where we are favoring the administration over the faculty."

McCabe expressed his unhappiness with the board's position, saying, "While it is true that the faculty senate has never been denied access to the board, we have only asked for time on the agenda in time of crisis. We think it would be better to have regular communications."

He added, "If you are sufficiently concerned about getting away from the 'we-they' relationship we have had in the past, you should allow the faculty the same status as the vice presidents."

McCabe explained that several union groups, including the Illinois Education Association (IEA) and the Illinois Federation of Teachers (IFT) "are courting this faculty and some have been on the campus within the last two weeks. Until this time we have rejected chances for affiliation, but the opportunity you have tonight may not come again."

BOARD MEMBER Larry Moats said he did not see what the board could lose by granting McCabe's request. "It seems to me that the vice presidents are resource people and that's what the president of the faculty senate would be," he said.

Board member Ross Miller said he did not believe the faculty senate should be allowed regular time on every agenda, adding that it was the responsibility of the administration "to communicate with the faculty through established channels."

In response to a remark by Nugent that "I don't think there is evidence that the present channels aren't adequate," McCabe replied, "The faculty thinks it doesn't work and that's 175 people. If there are satisfactory channels of communication, then both sides should think so. I've been here for five years and the present system doesn't work."

The board ended the discussion without taking any action.

Renegade Democrat Seeks Mugalian's Post

A renegade Democrat from Palatine has announced he will seek to unseat Richard Mugalian as Palatine Township Democratic committeeman.

Atty. Lloyd J. Walker, whose printed announcement carries the slogan "Victory Over Communism," said he would challenge Mugalian because "the Democratic Party in Palatine Township must be recaptured from the McGovern/Mugalian regime."

Walker describes himself as chairman of the Palatine Township Democrats for President Nixon and Gov. Ogilvie. His announcement also describes Mayor Richard Daley as "the sole driving force in the national Democratic Party."

"We could never count on the radical types of McGovern, Ramsey Clark and Mugalian," he said. "Edward Kennedy has surrendered to the radicals and would be unacceptable as a presidential candidate in 1976."

Walker also declared that he would seek the nomination of former Texas governor John Connally for president and Sen. Robert Byrd of West Virginia for vice president in 1976.

Walker was an organizer for the campaign of Alabama Gov. George Wallace in 1968.

Mugalian was elected last week as state representative in the newly formed 2nd Legislative District. He was elected township committeeman in 1970 following an unsuccessful bid for the post in 1968. He has indicated that he would step aside as committeeman if a "suitable" successor is found.

4 Plead Innocent To Slayings

Chicago (UPI) — Four reputed members of the De Mau Mau pleaded innocent Friday to charges of murdering four members of the Paul Corbett family in suburban Barrington Hills.

The four — Reuben Taylor, 22; his brother, Donald, 21; Nathaniel Burse, 23, and Michael Clark 21 — pleaded innocent to murder and robbery in their arraignment before Acting Chief Criminal Court Judge Richard J. Fitzgerald.

Fitzgerald assigned the case to Judge Frank Wilson, who prepared to set a date for pretrial motions.

THE FOUR YOUNG men allegedly were members of De Mau Mau, a group formed by black veterans of Vietnam. Authorities have attributed nine murders in Illinois to the group.

Corbett, 67, a retired insurance broker; his wife, Marian, 57; her daughter, Barbara S. Boand, 22; and Mrs. Corbett's sister, Mrs. Dorothy Derry, 60, were slain in the pantry of Corbett's home in Barrington Hills Aug. 4.

At a preliminary hearing Oct. 25 and 27, investigators said they heard testimony that the men forced their way into the home at gunpoint, ordered the occupants to lie down on the pantry floor while they looted the home — and shot the victims after Donald Taylor tried to stab a barking dog and Miss Boand became angered.

CONTEMPORARY DESIGN characterizes the new Sears Roebuck and Co. store in Vernon Hills in this artist's rendering. The store is slated for late 1973 opening in the Hawthorn Center, Routes 60 and 21.

Vernon Hills Outlet Slated For '73 Completion

New Sears Store For Lake County

Construction of a new Sears, Roebuck and Co. store in north suburban Vernon Hills is under way.

Slated for completion in late 1973, the new department store will be one of the major units in the Hawthorn Center. The center is located at the intersection of Routes 60 and 21. A two-level enclosed mall will serve the Lake County area surrounding New Century Town, a new community.

John D. Taylor, Sears general manger of retail operations in the Chicago metropolitan area, said the general contractor is E. W. Corrigan Construction Co. of Chicago. Other major contractors include: F. E. Moran Inc., Northbrook, as mechanical contractor; Henry Newgard & Co., Chicago, as electrical contractor; and Automatic Sprinkler Corp. of America, Park Ridge, for the sprinkler system.

The contemporary design for Sears' Vernon Hills store was prepared by Larsen-Wulff & Associates, Inc., LaGrange architectural firm. The gross area of more than 211,000 square feet will include an attached 25-car automotive service center. Parking for 1,300 cars will complement the added 5,500 spaces available in other areas at Hawthorn Center.

Sears will have 19 department stores in the Chicago metropolitan area with the opening of the Hawthorn Center unit.

Fred is going slower today.

Every year thousands of Freds take this final drive. Because they drove too fast.

And they take thousands of innocent victims with them. Driving too fast caused nearly 17,000 deaths last year. That's more than one third of the nation's traffic fatalities.

Speeding, for any reason whatsoever, is courting death. It just isn't worth it.

Because we sell new cars, we're especially concerned about safe driving.

We want you to use your car sensibly. And drive at reasonable speeds always. Automobiles last longer that way. More importantly ...so do people.

The HERALD

Some lonely night you'll be glad you bought an Energizer

Or some cold morning. Or whenever you want to get started in a hurry.

Because a Delco Energizer gives you a big burst of starting power. Up to 3750 Peak Watts . . . even at zero degrees. It's shown by the Peak Watts Rating molded right into the case.

Also, Energizers are dry-charged and vacuum-sealed at the factory. So when we break the seal and add fluid, your Energizer is ready to go with all the fresh starting power you need.

320 PADDOCK EMPLOYEES
LIVE ... WORK ... and RAISE FAMILIES
IN THE NORTHWEST SUBURBS

The prosperous expanding Northwest is a great place to live ... ask any of our 320 employees who live here ... work here ... and contribute to the economic growth of this outstanding part of America.

There's a great deal to say about "working close to home" ... especially when the home is in the beautiful Northwest Suburbs ... the home of Paddock Publications.

The Accepted Influence in the Northwest Suburbs

How a minus on your paycheck can be a plus in your future.

Sound confusing? It isn't, really. When you join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, an amount you designate will be set aside automatically from each paycheck. That's the "minus."

That amount will then be invested in U.S. Savings Bonds. That's where the "plus" comes in. Because you're automatically saving for your future, with one of the safest investments there are: U.S. Savings Bonds.

And, by deducting a little at a time from each paycheck, you don't feel the pinch financially. Before you know it, you'll have quite a tidy sum tucked away.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Put a little "plus" in your future. Join the Payroll Savings Plan.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

So You Want To Volunteer

Helping Aged, Handicapped A Challenge

by MONICA WILCH
(First in a series)

A young mother whose children have all started school finds boredom a daily enemy that housework just can't conquer; a widow is faced with long, lonely hours to fill now that her mate is gone. In such circumstances, people are often urged to become volunteers.

But volunteer work is no longer the domain of people with a lot of time on their hands — or of the well-to-do society woman.

Because it is so important to all human beings to feel needed and wanted, and because volunteer workers ARE needed and wanted, men and women from all walks of life are volunteering their spare time and talents.

As more working people seek opportunities to be volunteers, volunteer agencies such as the Volunteer Bureau of Northwest Cook County, bring them together with institutions needing help and are also developing volunteer programs for senior citizens, teenagers, inner-city residents and the poor.

TAKE THE CASE of Mrs. Warren G. Joadwine, for example. Mrs. Joadwine, of Palatine, is 75 years old and has been blind for 13 years. But for the last eight years she has been a volunteer at Plum Grove Nursing Home, where she helped organize the Volunteer Service Corps.

Recently named Volunteer of the Year by the American Nursing Home Association, Mrs. Joadwine spends some six hours a week working with the patients, helping with the Bible study and rosary groups, and training other volunteers.

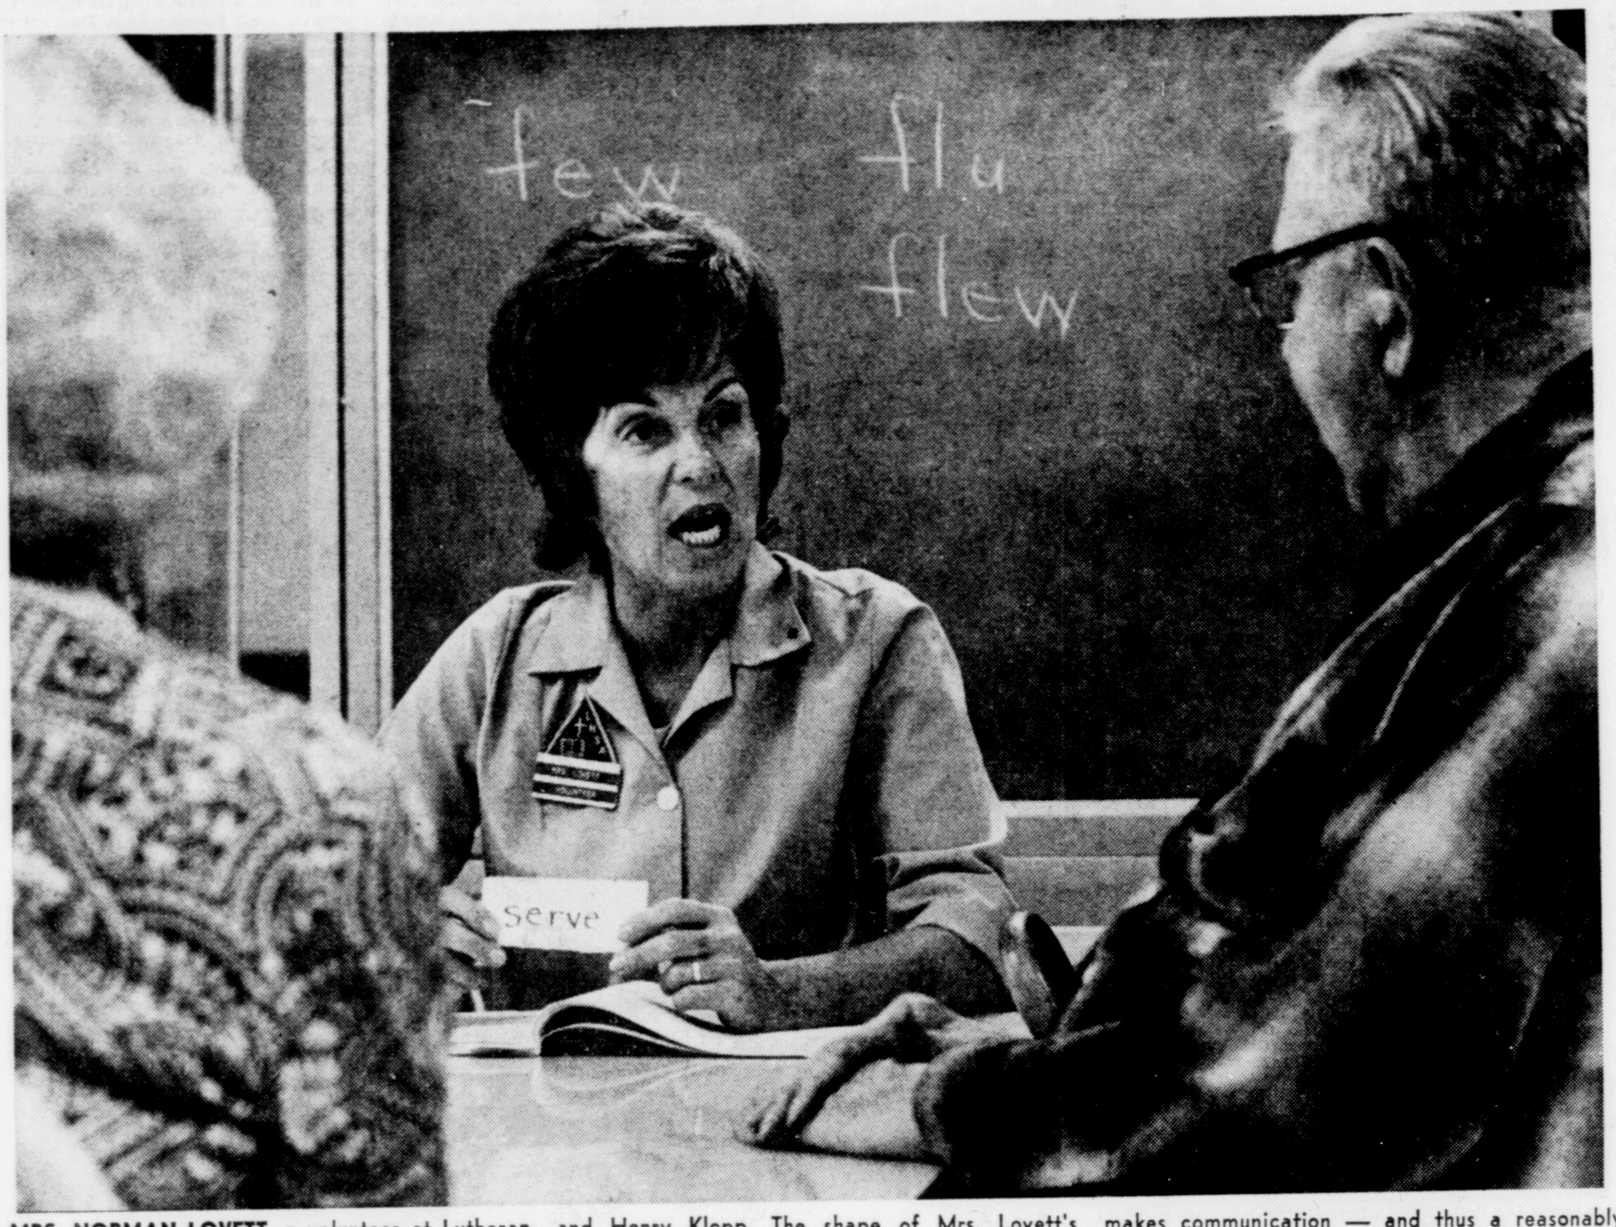

She terms her work "doing what I have to do with my life."

Working with the elderly is a job that offers a variety of exciting challenges to the imaginative volunteer, as illustrated by the program at the Lutheran Home for the Aged in Arlington Heights.

A BUSTLE OF activity greeted me the morning I visited and volunteers were involved in most of it. Mrs. Winnie Stewart, director of the volunteers, led me on a tour of the 217-bed home, where volunteers work with the elderly residents on projects ranging from singing and exercising to weaving rugs. Volunteers keep the home's library in order, wheel fruit and candy cards around to residents and help them with occupational therapy tasks.

But the newest and most exciting dimension to the volunteer program at the home, according to Mrs. Stewart, is making use of special talents or training that volunteers may have. The first "breakthrough" has been a class for the near-deaf in lip-reading. It is conducted by volunteers who either have a background in speech pathology or in teaching, although even that is not entirely necessary.

Mrs. Norman Lovett of Arlington Heights is one of the volunteers conducting these classes. She has taught briefly before, but her preparation for this service was a three-month training session given by the Chicago Hearing Society.

MRS. NORMAN LOVETT, a volunteer at Lutheran Home for the Aged in Arlington Heights, teaches lip-reading to deaf residents Clara Brosckschmidt and Henry Klopp. The shape of Mrs. Lovett's mouth indicates the sound she is making. This skill makes communication — and thus a reasonably normal life — possible for the deaf.

NOW SHE WORKS with the hard-of-hearing once a week, teaching them to communicate by reading lips.

"It's amazing how well they are able to concentrate and pick this up," she said, adding that most of her "students" are at least 75 years old.

Mrs. Lovett has been teaching lip-reading at the Lutheran Home for about a year, but had been a volunteer for three years before.

"I wanted to do something more challenging," she said, so Mrs. Stewart arranged for her to fill this special capacity.

Besides teaching the residents a valuable skill, lip-reading class has "gotten them out of their rooms, given them a chance to meet residents from other floors and most important, has encouraged them to speak out rather than remain silent for fear that they heard wrong," Mrs. Lovett said.

JUST AS DEAFNESS need not restrict a person's ability to communicate, neither must blindness. Volunteers can be "the eyes of the blind," putting sheaves of printed material into forms the blind can use, such as tapes or Braille.

The Johanna Bureau for the Blind and Visually Handicapped "always needs volunteers" to help with various transcribing operations, according to Mrs. David Jackson, director. The agency provides both textbooks and general library books for institutions all over the country, through the work of volunteers who operate large type typewriters, transcribe into Braille, record on tapes, run duplicating machines, collate and bind.

Most of the volunteers work at home and mail their materials to the Bureau; the Bureau employs only six paid staff personnel, two full-time and four part-time. But it turns out nearly half a million pages of Braille a year, plus tapes and large print books.

BETTY EVANS, who heads the large type department, said that many of the volunteers hold jobs and do the work for the Bureau in the evenings. She said her volunteers need to be accurate — not speedy — on the typewriter. No other qualifications are necessary. Those who want to work in Braille are given a 9-month training session, and volunteers for taping submit a voice test for approval by the Library of Congress.

"All of us are interested in helping the blind," she said, and added that volunteers often get thank-you notes from those they have helped, which "makes you feel good."

During the summers, Mrs. Evans said, the Bureau has a number of high school-age volunteers. The oldest volunteer is "in her nineties and we also have everyone in between!"

One of the "in-betweeners" is Mrs. Herbert Cohen of Rolling Meadows, who has been offering her services to the Johanna Bureau for 35 years — almost since the bureau's founding.

MRS. COHEN transcribed Braille for 15 years, until her children grew to the stage that precludes concentration. But there is always plenty of other work to be done, and Mrs. Cohen began going into the Bureau to collate and bind books that have been transcribed into Braille. She also served for several years as chairman of the large type department.

This busy mother also works three days a week in a North Chicago office, rides horseback and ice skates. She has always worked part-time only, because "I don't want to give up the volunteer work."

Mrs. Cohen's mother, who is 84, also volunteers at the Bureau, running duplicating machines. Due to the dedication of many volunteers like Mrs. Cohen and her mother, a whole new world is opened up for thousands of people unable to see.

THE WORK OF the bureau is of special importance to blind young people, who in years past have very limited opportunities to acquire an education. Since the philosophy of educators, with respect to the blind, has shifted from the concept of special schools to including them in regular public schools, the demand for Braille materials and tapes has increased tremendously, Mrs. Jackson said. The bureau's shelves are lined with Braille books on quantum mechanics, music, Portuguese, sociology — every topic imaginable.

Volunteer service accounts for about one-third of the Bureau's budget, with another third made up through reimbursements for supplies and the rest attained in contributions.

Another similar organization is Recording For the Blind, Inc., located in Winnetka. Also serving the entire nation, with headquarters in New York, Recording For the Blind uses volunteers to tape college textbooks. Over 20,000 books are available free to blind students from this organization.

According to Mrs. Irvin Richman of the Winnetka office, persons with at least two years of college are preferred, but volunteers need not have "an especially mellifluous voice." Tape auditions are sent to New York to be judged for "intelligent reading."

A Hot Line For The Housewife?

What is the difference between a fine tailored suit and one that hangs and droops?

In a well-made suit, attention is given to each basting stitch, every pressing along the way, and periodic inspections are made to assure that the final product is a garment with a sculptured, contoured fit.

And women should take heed, along with the men, for their blazers and tailored suits are being constructed in much the same fashion as men's suits.

Rarely does a consumer see the makings of a suit, but Hart Schaffner & Marx claims, for instance, that there are 145 separate components in each one of its vested suits. How these pieces are stitched together makes all the difference in final appearance and fit.

OF COURSE THE average consumer cannot check out every step of construction. He wouldn't even know how to.

Yet there are important details that everyone should be aware of in purchasing a new suit.

Look at the sleeves. They should be smoothly sewn into the armholes and likewise, pocket flaps should be accurately sewn into the coat so that there is a perfect pattern match and no noticeable puckers.

A patterned suit should match at the seams, the lapels across the front and the collar with the back.

There should also be ample overlay to the back vents, side or center. This insures against a gaping effect if the wearer's posterior should happen to be a little larger than average.

IN GENERAL, a suit that is well-tailored should follow and flatter the lines of the body, not hang away from and attempt to just cover up. The collar should hug the neck, the lapels must roll in a graceful unbroken line and the coat altogether should rest lightly on the shoulders.

The 145 fabric pieces required in the tailoring of a Hart Schaffner & Marx suit are not the only needed parts. Spokesmen from the company have broken it down further. Also included in the construction are more than 8,000 square inches of inner fabric of various types, 16 buttons, 565 yards of thread of 19 different types and 150,000 stitches.

Buying a suit is like buying a car. You have to make sure you don't get a lemon off the assembly line.

SHOULDER SEAM PRESSING is an important step in the construction of a suit because the fit and balance of a coat depend on the smooth, precise fit through the shoulder and neck area.

It has been a long time since we had been able to get together. Sometimes our husbands think that we housewives in the neighborhood do nothing but coffee day in and day out, but our gathering at Patti's last week was the first since school started.

For about an hour we all sat around telling each other how busy we had been. Everyone was truly involved as school aides, PTA workers, Sunday school teachers, art league promoters and scout leaders. We all agreed we were overcommitted, but the one in the worst plight was Marianne. Marianne's circumstance was understandable because this is her first year out. Her youngest began first grade this year.

"I'm afraid to tell my husband just how many activities I'm involved in," Marianne told us. "I've told the people on each committee I serve on not to call after six or on weekends, and if a man answers, to hang up. My husband warned me about going overboard this year on volunteer work, and I can't admit to him that I have already."

"I KNOW what you mean," Florie said wisely. "I found myself with so much to do after Michael got to first grade that it seemed that the only way out was to have another baby."

Nobody laughed. We are all alike in many ways, and we like to give time to worthy causes. But we all find it hard to draw the line, and drastic solutions sometimes seem to present the only answers.

Alice Flaxton, my best friend and next-door neighbor, had been sitting thoughtfully quiet through all this. "I think I have an idea that may help."

"What's that?" Marianne asked eagerly.

"Why not set up a service that answers a telephone number around the clock? One can call whenever one is considering volunteering for something else. It would be modeled after those numbers one can call when considering suicide — hopefully someone will talk you out of it."

"THAT SOUNDS great!" Patti was enthusiastic. "I can hear myself now, calling because I'm planning to join 50 clubs — all at once!"

"The service could also warn about mixing certain types of volunteer activities that might produce unwanted social reactions," Florie suggested.

"Alice," I said, "you've hit on another brilliant idea! When do you think you can get started?"

Alice was obviously pleased by our response. "Right away!" she said. "But of course first I'll need some volunteers . . ."

'Oh I'll help!"
"Me too!"
"Include me!"
"And me!"

Named Illinois Outstanding Woman

Mary Jane Kolar of Elk Grove Village has been named Outstanding Young Woman of Illinois for 1972. Mrs. Kolar, who works for the American Dietetic Association, (ADA), will now be considered for one of 10 Outstanding Young Women of America awards to be announced in Washington, D. C., Nov. 29.

Nominated for this honor by one of her colleagues, Mrs. Kolar was selected from among hundreds of Illinois women on the basis of her professional accomplishments, community involvement and academic achievement.

As coordinator of internships and undergraduate programs for the ADA, Mrs. Kolar works with some 900 students and 500 college and university faculty members who are seeking academic majors in dietetics. She coordinates 85 dietetic internships and programs across the United States.

A former teacher at Maine West High School in Des Plaines, Mrs. Kolar also helped develop two educational studies for the dietetic profession and planned a series of workshops for Dietetic Technician Educators.

NEXT MONTH, Mrs. Kolar will move to a new position as director of education for the American Dental Hygienists Association.

A graduate of Southern Illinois University, Mrs. Kolar is a member of Associated Allied Health Professions, Illinois Training Directors Association, Women in Communications (formerly Theta Sigma Phi) and Triton Wives Association.

Mrs. Kolar will be listed and pictured in the 1972 volume of Outstanding Young Women of America, a biography of the honorees of the eight-year-old award program. Women chosen for the award are between the ages of 21 and 35.

Mrs. Mary Jane Kolar

While she hadn't expected the award, Mrs. Kolar said she had been "touched and pleased to be nominated."

"I was really taken aback," she said, upon being notified of her selection.

Mrs. Kolar and her husband, Otto, live at 540 Gateshead in Elk Grove Village and are the parents of one child.

Making Plans To Marry In '73

Kathleen Rogers

The engatement of an area couple, Kathleen Ann Rogers of Rolling Meadows and Cary Patrick McCarville of Mount Prospect, is announced by Kathleen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Rogers, 3502 Bobolink Lane. Cary is the son of the John T. McCarvilles of 806 Cathy Lane.

An April 28, 1973 wedding is planned.

The bride-to-be graduated from Fremd High School in '71, attended Harper College and works for Dominick's in Rolling Meadows. Her fiance graduated from Onarga Military Academy, attended Harper and is employed in Elk Grove for Stanco Midwest Mfg. & Sales.

Gail Enderle

Co-workers at The Bank & Trust Co. of Arlington Heights, Gail A. Enderle and Randy J. Bube are engaged and planning to be married next April 28.

Gail is the daughter of Mrs. E. Enderle, 3504 Kingfisher Lane, Rolling Meadows, and the late Mr. Enderle. Randy's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Maurell Bube, 307 S. Dwyer, Arlington Heights.

She is a graduate of Sacred Heart of Mary High School; he attended Arlington High and graduated from Eastern Illinois University.

Elizabeth Galloway

Mr. and Mrs. Dale F. Galloway, 905 S. Chestnut Ave., Arlington Heights, are announcing the engagement of their daughter Elizabeth Anne to Danny Wayne Lee, son of the Adrian Lees of Greenville, Ky.

A June '73 wedding in the First Presbyterian Church of Arlington is planned.

Liz, a '69 graduate of Arlington High School, is completing her senior year at the University of Kentucky, majoring in home economics. Danny is also a senior there, earning a degree in architecture.

Peggy Dustin

Seniors at Bradley University, Peggy Dustin of Galva, Ill., and David Kehe of Palatine are engaged and planning to be married in January 1973.

The announcement comes from Peggy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dustin of Galva.

David, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kehe, 1464 Turkey Trail, graduated from Fremd High School and is affiliated with Sigma Chi Fraternity at Bradley. Peggy is in Pi Beta Phi Sorority.

Allan Inzerello, Bride Making Home In Omaha

When Allan Inzerello of Elk Grove Village left for Wayne State College after graduation from Forest View High School, Nebraska became his home state. He is a teacher there now and on Oct. 28 took an Omaha girl, Linda Helgenberger, as his bride.

Allan teaches at Westgate School in Omaha, and Linda works for Northern Natural Gas Co. in that city. She is the daughter of the Harold W. Helgenbergers and is a graduate of the University of Nebraska.

The groom's family, the Anthony T. Inzerellos of 371 Laurel St., Elk Grove, went west for the couple's afternoon wedding in St. Pius X Church. Allan's brother Anthony Jr. of Newburgh, Ind., was his best man, and three other brothers, Mark, Cary and Christopher, were ushers.

ALSO ATTENDING the groom were Michael Colovos, Timothy Irish, Lee Nordine and Tom Marsicek, all of Omaha.

Linda chose her sister, Mrs. A. W. Luedtke of Bellevue, Neb., as her matron of honor and another sister, Mrs. Martin Warwick of Omaha, was bridesmaid along with Mrs. Robert Cordes of Wahoo, Neb.

Linda's niece, Susan Warwick, was a junior bridesmaid and another niece, Karlyn Warwick, 5, was flower girl.

THE BRIDAL attendants were dressed alike in chiffon gowns, but they alternated colors in cocoa brown and gold. All carried tea roses and autumn colored mums in their bouquets.

The bride came down the aisle in a white sata peau gown lavishly trimmed with Nottingham lace. The Empire bodice featured a lace yoke with ruffled edge and long lace sleeves. The A-line skirt was bordered with a wide band of ruffled lace as was the chapel train.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Inzerello

Linda's elbow-length veil was attached to a Camelot headpiece of sata peau decorated with lace and pearls and she carried a nosegay of white roses and spider mums.

After the double ring nuptials there was a reception for 300 guests at the German American Society in Omaha.

Bride Faints At Altar

There were a few tense moments when Jean Elizabeth Siers and Richard W. Moeller exchanged wedding vows Oct. 7 in St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Arlington Heights. The groom claimed his bride, but not before she fainted twice at the altar.

The nervous bride recovered quickly, though, and later she and Dick greeted 160 guests at a reception at Addison VFW Hall. They honeymooned in Hawaii and are making their home in Mount Prospect.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Siers, 2005 Grove St., Rolling Meadows, Jean graduated from Forest View High School and works for United Air Lines in Elk Grove.

THE GROOM, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Harrell, 604 Bunting Lane, Mount Prospect, attended Prospect High, then DeVry Institute, and is with Illinois Bell Telephone Co. in Palatine.

For the four o'clock wedding Mrs. Richard Lavicka of Lombard was matron of honor and Rolland Hayenga, Arlington Heights, best man. The bride's sister, Mrs. Carole Bartik of Mount Prospect, and her cousin, Sue Voss, Michigan City, were bridesmaids and Thomas Bartik and Thomas Hughes, Arlington, ushered.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Moeller

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: I'm 22, a nurse at one of the city's best hospitals. My parents live in a nearby community and are good, solid citizens. I have a checking account and two savings accounts. Yet I can't get a credit card from either a bank or department store. Why should I be discriminated against? — Mary Pat Lyons.

You've got two strikes on you, Mary Pat: your age and your profession. So say spokesmen for two of the country's leading credit card companies, a bank and a quality store. They contend that their experiences with the young have been discouraging and so they insist on "more employment experience." As for nurses, they claim that so many move from hospital to hospital so often that it's a losing battle keeping up with them. There's one plus note to all this. For the moment, you're spared all the idiotic altercations so many of us have with the computerized accounts.

Dear Dorothy: I've been one of your fans for a long time and follow many of your suggestions, and your recipes are delightful. Now, at last, you've asked one I can answer: "What can be done to oversalted vegetables to make them palatable?" My mother taught me years ago to slice a potato very thin and add to the vegetables. Let is simmer until the salt is absorbed by the potato. Usually it doesn't take very long and the potato can be removed. — Nell Blair.

Dear Dorothy: Living in an apartment, house plants mean a lot to me — having greenery around. Noticed a tiny mite on one of the plants. I'm sure it will spread. What can I do? — Micheline Roth.

It sure will spread. Try dabbing at them with rubbing alcohol on a cotton swab. If this doesn't work, get a spray from any florist — that works on mites, aphids, thrips, lace bugs and so forth.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006)

Looked lately at what's happening to vinyl tablecloths? They can be machine washed and dried. But that's not all. Patterns are taking on chic decorator looks. One newcomer is a two-color butterfly motif on vinyl lace. The company introducing that one earlier put out a two-color tulip pattern with the look of organdy.

Mrs. Marvin Meltzer will present a program on Depression Glass at Tuesday's meeting of Prairie Violet Questers. It begins at 9:30 a.m. in the home of Mrs. Glenn Pace, 706 S. Kennicott, Arlington Heights.

PALATINE HOMEMAKERS

Palatine Unit of Cook County Homemakers meets Tuesday at 12:30 p.m. in Christ Lutheran Church, 41 S. Rohlwing Road, Palatine.

A craft lesson at 10 a.m. precedes the meeting. Mrs. E. Kurz will show how to make pine cone ornaments.

The major lesson at the afternoon meeting is entitled "Protein for Thrifty Meals," to be given by Mrs. George Even and Mrs. Paul Olson.

Hostesses are Mrs. Ted Meyers, Mrs. Robert Syverson and Mrs. Eric Rydin.

ARLINGTON JUNIORS

Members of Arlington Heights Junior Woman's Club will have an opportunity to do some Christmas shopping Tuesday at their general meeting. A "Holiday Boutique" filled with arts and crafts made by members themselves will offer items for sale.

The boutique will run the gamut from handmade neckties and decoupage to miniature plantings and Christmas decorations.

Each Junior is asked to bring a small gift item to be sold in a silent auction, proceeds of which will go to Project Concern.

The meeting begins at 8 p.m. in Pioneer Park Fieldhouse.

BUFFALO GROVE-WHEELING LA LECHE LEAGUE

"The Art of Breastfeeding and Overcoming Difficulties" is the topic for discussion at Tuesday evening's meeting of Buffalo Grove-Wheeling LaLeche group. This second session in a four-part series will begin at 8:30 at the home of Mrs. Walter McGuire, 635 St. Mary's Pkwy., Buffalo Grove. Visitor's and babies are welcome.

Mrs. Julius J. Fejes will open the discussion on some of the common worries and misconceptions about breastfeeding as well as specific ways to care for mother and baby during this period.

A loan library is provided for members. Details can be obtained from Mrs. Fejes, 541-1674.

ARLINGTON LA LECHE

The LaLeche League group in Arlington Heights will hold its third in a series of four monthly meetings Tuesday at 8 p.m. The topic is "Childbirth and the Baby in Relation to the Family."

Mrs. Gordon Erickson will be hostess; group leader will be Mrs. James Challgren, 358-8166.

ST. MARK CHURCHWOMEN

St. Mark Luthern Church ALCW will hold the next business meeting Wednesday at 8:30 a.m. in Fellowship Hall, Mount Prospect. Coffee will be served; a nursery is available.

MOUNT PROSPECT WELCOME WAGON NEWCOMERS

The Welcome Wagon Newcomers Club of Mount Prospect meets Wednesday evening at 8 at the local community center, 600 See-Gwun. Guests are welcome.

The program will feature Ruth Cournoyer, president of Countryside Art Center, who will discuss "How to Start an Art Collection on a Limited Budget." Slides will be shown and a question and answer period follows her presentation.

Hospitality chairman Mrs. Robert N. Markham, 392-1757, or co-chairman, Mrs. Dennis McDonald, 253-4066, can be called for details and transportation.

The newcomers are busy with workshops for "The Christmas Wagon" brunch, boutique and bake sale set for Wednesday, Dec. 6, at St. Mark Lutheran Church. Members can help by calling Gloria Van Dyke, 956-1164, or Jane Nelson, 392-9349.

ALPHA XI DELTA

Members of Chicago Northwest Suburban Alumnae Chapter of Alpha XI Delta will be making terrariums at their meeting Wednesday evening at 8. Mrs. John Clark of Park Ridge will be hostess, assisted by Mrs. John Sternamen, also of Park Ridge.

The terrariums and plants are being ordered by Mrs. David Moninger of Mount Prospect.

CHICAGO KIWI CLUB

The Chicago Kiwi Club has been invited to tour the Park Lawn School, 10833 S. LaPorte, Oak Lawn, Wednesday at 8 p.m. The former American Airlines Stewardesses will view the new activity center, which is a workshop for young mentally retarded adults. The center was recently completed due to a donation from the annual Kiwi luncheon and fashion show.

Information on the Kiwi club can be obtained from Mrs. Robert Fridlund of Elk Grove Village, 956-1828.

AMERICANA HUNTERS

Americana Hunters Chapter of Questers will meet at the home of Mr. Ray Mills of Palatine Thursday at 9:30 a.m. Mr. Mills, who has a comprehensive collection of Wedgewood, has invited the members to see his display and will give a talk on it.

The business meeting and coffee will follow at the home of Mrs. William Wittern, 1807 N. Rolling Lane, Arlington Heights. Co-hostess is Mrs. Joseph Diemente.

If You're Driving

It's normal to want to reach your vacation site as soon as possible. But keep these driving trips from the National Safety Council in mind so that you reach your destination safely:

—A slowpoke on the highway is just as dangerous as the speedster. Therefore, drive with the traffic; don't block it by driving too slowly.

—Take breaks often. Don't hesitate to stop if you are tired. If possible, rotate drivers.

—Seat belts save lives. Cornell University studies of actual auto crashes prove seat belts are life savers. The National Safety Council estimates that 8,000 lives could be saved every year if everyone, drivers and passengers, would use seat belts.

—Don't forget to signal lane changes. Before changing lanes, signal and check your blind spot for cruising cars unseen in the rear view mirror.

Slate Food Drive At Beth Tikvah

Beth Tikvah Sisterhood and Social Action Committee are co-sponsoring a food drive for Northwest Community Center which distributes food to low income groups.

Residents wishing to donate "non-perishable foods only" may bring them to the lobby at Beth Tikvah Congregation, 275 Hillcrest Blvd., Hoffman Estates, Saturday and Sunday from 9 a.m. to noon.

Further information is available by calling 529-4545.

Home Expense

Your home is the toughest expense, according to money management specialists, who say you shouldn't spend more than 30 per cent of your after-tax income for housing, including heat, utilities and furnishings.

Look into your mortgage interest if you want a way to cut this cost. If you have a loan at 8½ or 9 per cent you may want to consider refinancing at a lower rate. (UPI)

A "JOLLY HOLLY" SALE Saturday at Prospect Heights Community Church, Route 83 and Willow Road, will feature handmade gifts and decorations shown by Mrs. Fred Prather, Mrs. Clyde Steward and Mrs. James Calvin. The churchwomen will also sell baked goods and serve a lunch of hotdogs, sloppy joes, donuts and coffee. Bazaar hours are 11 to 5.

Old Folks Riding Three-Wheelers

NEW RK (UPI) — Grandma and grandpa are riding three-wheel bikes these days.

After a 60-year decline, bicycles have returned to the American scene in such large numbers that sales are expected to reach 11.5 million this year, according to the W.L. Hammond, outdoor recreation specialist for F. W. Woolworth.

In addition to the sleek, 10-speed machine with wide-ratio gears that enables the rider to zoom along or coast leisurely on thin gumwall tires, there is a growing market for bicycles among the nation's retirement group.

"Bicycle traffic jams are not uncommon in front of the supermarket in a senior citizens' community where 'grown-up' three-wheel bikes have replaced the auto as a means of transportation," Hammond reports. "The need for 'getting there in a hurry' no longer exists for this group, so they go by pedal-power instead of horsepower. And millions of their children and grandchildren are doing their thing on two-wheelers."

ORT Opens Meeting For Political Film

Woodfield Chapter of Women's American ORT (Organization for Rehabilitation through Training) is inviting guests to see a film Wednesday evening on "Grass-Roots Politics." The women borrowed the film to show as a public service.

The open meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in Schaumburg Township Library meeting room.

Woodfield ORT has five members participating in the Conant High School Vocational Service. The women volunteer to assist in grading papers at the school.

Women On The March

Army Enrolls Girls In ROTC

by JOAN HANAUER

Women are marching toward equality on campus this fall to a hup-two-three-four cadence.

For the first time in its history, the Army ROTC has enrolled coeds on 10 of the 293 campuses on which its military science curriculum is offered.

More than 200 coeds so far have joined up, and the figures are not yet complete. if the girls stay with the program, they will be eligible for the scholarships — and the Army commissions — until now reserved only for male students. The Air Force has had ROTC women for several years and Army ROTC units had auxiliaries, "cadets" or mascots who participated in part of the program but were not eligible for scholarships and commissions.

The Army ROTC speaks of its coed program as a "limited test for women." An ROTC spokesman in New York explained that his organization wanted to "get the feel of input and output" and added:

"What if we opened up the program to women at 290 schools and wound up with 40,000 women? What would we do with 40,000 female officers?"

THE COLLEGES NOW open to women ROTC students are Eastern Kentucky University, Penn State University, South Carolina State College, Louisiana State University, Indiana University, Texas A &I University, South Dakota State University, Arizona State University and the University of Hawaii.

The girls in ROTC are taking basically the same program as their male counterparts, although marksmanship and bearing arms are on a voluntary basis. Details have not yet been worked out about what the girls will do in more advanced ROTC courses, which include forced marches, combat training and summer training programs.

Lt. Col. Norman R. Anderson, associate professor of military science at South Dakota State University in Brookings, explained one reason for the Army's expanding its ROTC to include women. He said the Defense Department plans to expand the woman's role in the Army by 1976 when the freshman women now enrolled in the program will be commissioned.

HE ADDED THE ROTC isn't changing its method of operation because women are in the program — the women are making the adjustment, not the ROTC.

The exception might be uniforms.

The girls in the program say they are attracted by the scholarships, by the appeal of a new avenue of study, and by the possibility of the Army as a career. A number of them are the daughters of service personnel.

Nancy Wall, of Wishawaka, Ind., one of the 15 freshman coeds in the Indiana University program at Bloomington, said of her reasons for joining:

"For one thing, my father was in the service 22 years and I was aware of a lot of opportunities in military service most girls do not realize. I am not sure how I am going to like it, but I think there are things you get from the Army and kinds of experiences you can't beat."

MANY OF THE GIRLS, such as Sylvia Diaz, 18, a freshman at Texas A&I at Kingsville, are interested in the ROTC scholarship program and believe they will stick out the four-year course. Because of its four-year nature, the Army ROTC is primarily interested in freshmen, although because this is the first year it is open to women, it also is accepting some sophomores. Juniors and seniors may take it for their own interest.

"I think I'll stick it out," Miss Diaz said. "It's pretty interesting. I might make it a career. I'm going for a four-year scholarship. The scholarship is a pretty good deal. You get all your tuition, fees and books and $100 a month."

Many of the girls said they have taken some good-natured ribbing on their ROTC status, and a few mentioned that their boyfriends were less than enthusiastic.

There has been no difficulty reported, however, from the male side of the ROTC. Typical of the reaction was that of Tom Dyke, of Ashland, Ky., a political science major at Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond, who said:

"Women are all talking about increased roles in society and this is just one more opportunity for them."

What Chance Pregnancy After 40?

by FRIEDA Kaye

A woman in her 40s may sometimes think she's pregnant and she's not. The changing pattern of her monthly cycle can cause that confusion. Yet, her chances of conceiving at age 40 are about half those of a woman 35 or under according to Dr. Shepard Aronson of the New York University Medical Center.

"Anatomically and physically speaking," Dr. Aronson says, "the mature woman produces either no more eggs, or essentially infertile ones." After 45 years, he declares, the chances of conceiving are very low indeed. "The oldest woman I know was about 47 when she bore a living child," he states.

According to Dr. George Ryan, who teaches obstetrics and gynecology at the Harvard Medical School, mature women "have fewer unplanned pregnancies, because they're much more informed now about contraception." Doctors don't see as many "Menopausal babies" as they once did, he notes.

"IF A WOMAN THINKS she might have conceived, however," he says, "she no longer need spend time in fear and trepidation that she might be pregnant." Excellent tests are available, he points out, to indicate within two weeks of the missed period, whether the woman is pregnant or not.

Should the pregnancy test be negative, notes Dr. Ryan, he gives his patients a complete physical examination to establish that her periods are ending because of the menopause. "If this is the case, we can reassure her that she's normal," he explains.

Even though the patient may not have symptoms "judged to be menopausal," Dr. Ryan asserts, "We will follow her with tests at six-month intervals to see if she might be getting low on estrogen." Should she show such a deficiency, he will prescribe estrogen therapy, he says "to replace the hormone her ovaries have stopped producing."

Women going through the menopause, Dr. Ryan points out, can also become concerned about the aging processes which might follow it. These, he explains, include such physiologic changes as the drying of the skin and other tissues, and changes in the bone as well. "Now we can assure such women," he declares, "that we have the replacement therapy to help prevent some of these changes."

THE MATURE WOMAN who finds herself pregnant would be well advised, Dr. Ryan suggests, to discuss the implications of this with her physician. She should know, for example, he points out, that the incidence of abnormal babies increases about 10-fold for mothers in the over-35 age group.

"It's really a serious problem," he notes, "and when you get up in the 40-and-over age range, the increase is probably even greater." However, it's now possible, he points out, to do genetic studies — by sampling the fluid around the fetus — which indicate whether or not the child will be normal at birth.

While the women in menopause may have these various problems, she's also concerned about the prospect for continuing her sexual activity, Dr. Ryan observes. "We try to convince her there should be no change," he says. "We would like to keep her a functional woman long as she lives."

LGH's High-Risk Nursery Is Public Meeting Topic

A presentation on Lutheran General Hospital's high-risk nursery will be featured at a public meeting this Thursday at the hospital, 1775 Dempster St., Park Ridge. The community service event will begin at 8 p.m. in the hospital's chapel-auditorium.

The high-risk nursey is the only facility of its kind in northwest Chicago and is one of only a few in the whole metropolitan area. It's designed to totally support children from newborn to three months.

Premature babies and other seriously ill infants are monitored and provided with respiratory, cardiovascular, nutritional and environmental requirements. Infants as small as two pounds have been able to survive and grow with the help of the nursery's highly sophisticated equipment.

The specialized nursery began operation in July and is equipped to care for 10 babies. Nearly 100 infants have already received care.

SPEAKING AT the meeting will be Henry Mangurten, MD.; Seymour Metrick, M.D.; Mrs. Barry Salde, R.N., and Mrs. Michael O'Donnell, R.N.

Dr. Mangurten is the full-time neonatalogist in charge of the nursery. He has spent two years of training and research in the area of dealing with critically ill newborns at the University of Illinois Hospital, Chicago.

Dr. Metrick, chairman of the pediatric department, Mrs. Slade, head nurse and Mrs. O'Donnell, pediatric nursing supervisor, will discuss the evolution of the high-risk nursery. Demonstrated at the meeting will be heart and oxygen monitoring units, a fluid infusion pump and other equipment. Slides will illustrate equipment which cannot be displayed in the auditorium.

Thursday's meeting is part of the Men's Association community health education series and is designed to inform the public about health and health care.

Oil Painter To Demonstrate

Bert Walgren will paint a landscape oil as a part of the evening's program when the Arlington Heights Art Guild meets Thursday at Pioneer Park in Arlington Heights. The meeting begins at 8 o'clock.

Having studied in the U. S. and abroad, Walgren currently is an art instructor at Wilbur Wright College.

Anyone interested in art is urged to attend the program. Further information is available through 392-8670.

An introduction to mosaic knitting.

BARBARA WALKER

The most exciting but easiest innovation in knitting is mosaic knitting. Its creator, Miss Barbara Walker, will be at Penneys Woodfield store in the sewing instruction room to demonstrate the technique and answer questions. The date is Tuesday, November 14th, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Even a beginner can conquer the simple patterns in a few minutes, but the designs look intricate and are made by using two contrasting yarns and a series of knitted and slipped stitches.

Mosaic knitting can be used for anything from a simple scarf or pillow to a stole, dress, sweater--whatever you want to make.

Contact a friend and make it a date. Miss Walker is looking forward to meeting you.

Knitting kits are available for local community club use.

Split Tickets: More Of A Habit

Victories of Democrat Dan Walker in the Illinois governor's race and fellow Democrat Michael J. Howlett for secretary of state in the face of an otherwise Republican sweep indicate that ticket-splitting is becoming more of a habit of Illinois voters.

The trend is less noticeable in the Northwest suburbs, where Republican candidates uniformly came through with their traditional wide margins.

There is some indication of Republican defections to the Democratic column, however.

State Sen. Thomas G. Lyons of Chicago, the Democratic candidate for attorney general, attracted some 25,000 votes in the suburban townships of Wheeling, Schaumburg, Palatine and Elk Grove.

Democratic governor-elect Dan Walker doubled that total, gathering over 52,000 votes, while Howlett had more than 53,000. Scott, probably the most glamorous candidate on the Republican side, led the ticket with more than 112,000 votes while Republican Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie got less than 100,000 in the four townships.

Despite these variances, Republican candidates still upheld their traditional advantage in the Northwest suburbs, ranging from Scott's margin of more than 4-to-1 over Lyons to Ogilvie's almost 2-to-1 margin in the four townships over Walker.

The fluctuation of some 28,000 votes between the totals of Lyons and Walker, from among a total vote of something over 150,000, indicates a certain selectivity by suburban voters.

That selectivity, election watchers believe, is due to increase with future elections

We believe that such ticket-splitting is the best tool the voters have to bring pressure to bear on political parties to choose their candidates with great care, and to encourage wider participation in their slatemaking processes.

Though the Northwest suburbs are likely to remain solidly Republican for some time to come, the GOP can be encouraged to seek out the highest quality candidates by the threat from Replublican voters of switching to the other side of the ballot in selected races. The Democrats should know by now that their only hope in the suburbs lies in finding and strongly supporting such quality candidates.

It's up to the voters in future elections to demonstrate to both parties that they will carefully examine the candidates and select the best man for the job.

Used Car Danger

Buying a used car always was a chancy business. It still is, warns Traffic Safety magazine, despite federal regulations governing vehicle safety.

This is because many new car owners who have been receiving recall notices about a possible flaw in their model have not been having the necessary inspection made or the recall-related defect corrected, writes Jim Kielty, road safety supervisor for the National Safety Council, in the organization's publication.

These cars may eventually be sold to private parties or traded in on new cars. Thus unsuspecting used car buyers may be driving cars with possibly defective engine mounts or faulty rear axles or some other potentially dangerous flaw.

More than 30 million cars have been issued recall notices for the inspection and correction of possible safety defects since passage of the National Traffic and Motor Vehicle Safety Act of 1966.

Automakers estimate that about 90 per cent of the owners of new cars bring in their vehicles for the necessary, serious repairs. But with cars four or five years old, the figure falls to about 50 per cent.

Kielty suggests that:

(1) All used car dealers should make sure the necessary recall-type maintenance work has been performed on all the cars they sell. Dealer associations should require this. A more drastic method would be to make it a legal requirement.

(2) Insurance coverage might be refused to those vehicles that have not had possible defects corrected. This system could easily include those cars sold by one private party to another.

(3) States with mandatory motor vehicle inspection laws should refuse to pass cars that have not had recall defects corrected.

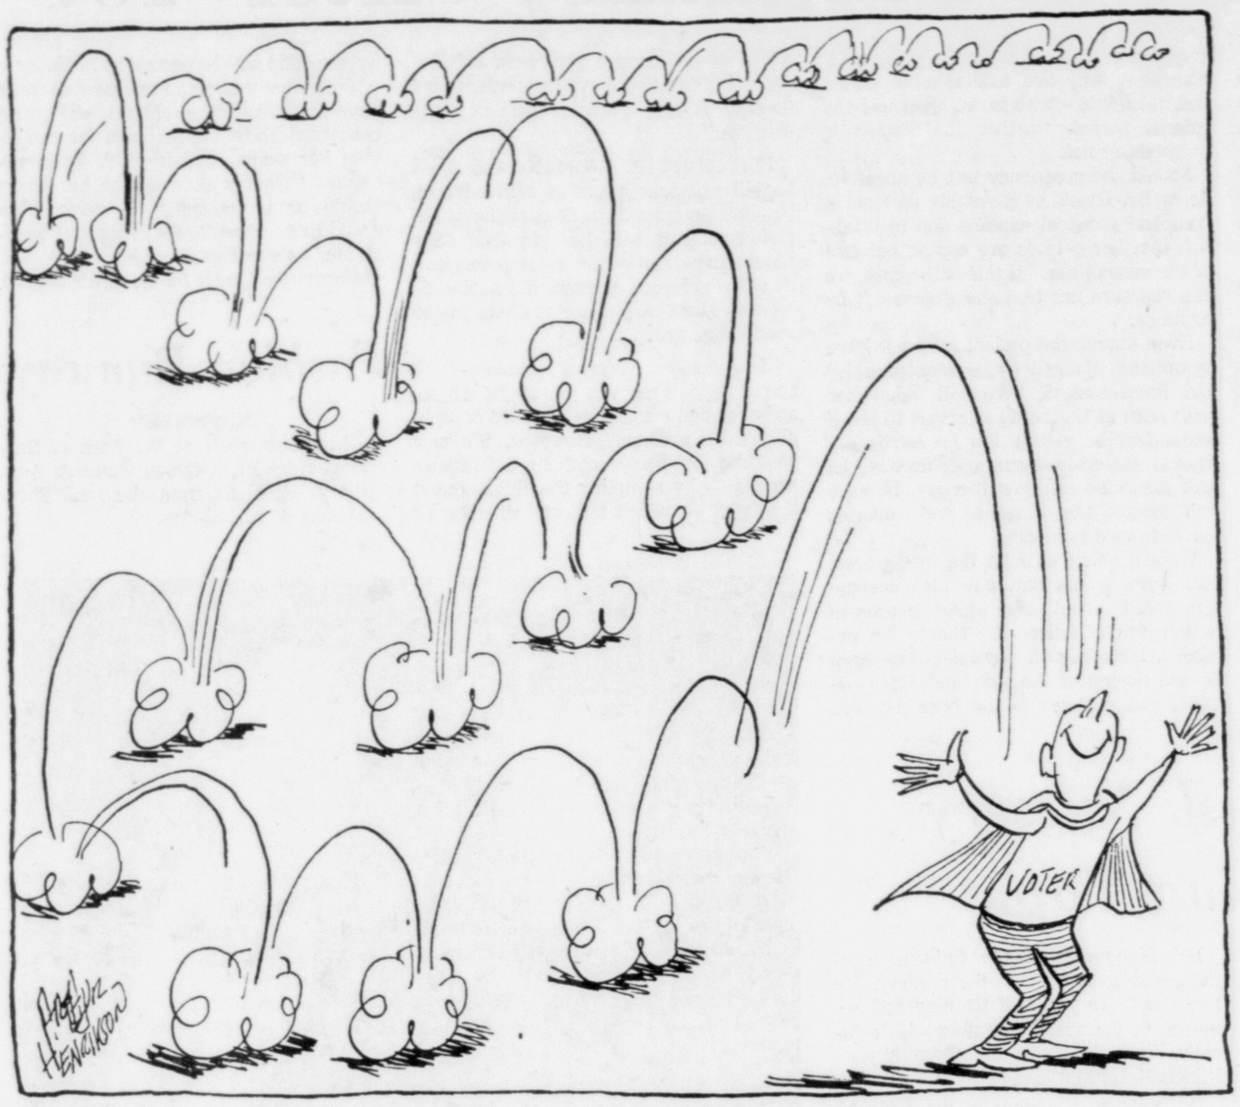

In the meantime, a person considering buying a used car from a dealer can protect himself by having the dealer check the car's serial number against the warranty processing data banks of the manufacturer. These contain the serial numbers of all recall-repaired vehicles.

Proper Victorians?

Kreolite News reports that it came across this bit of advice in an old etiquette manual, circa 1855:

"At a dinner party, the master of the house gets up, asks the guests to follow him to the dining room and sets an example by passing out first."

Fence Post Letters To The Editor

Lewin Blasts Dist. 54

While a member of the Dist. 54 Board of Education, I requested the administration to make public the teachers salary schedule. The administration refused.

I asked several board members to make the salary schedule public and was told they would as soon as some legal questions concerning the past negotiations with the teachers' union were cleared up. The legal questions have been answered and still the salary schedule is a secret.

To make public a base salary and an index number is not giving the public the information they need to make an appraisal of the contract. Too many people do not know a teacher in Dist. 54 can make in excess of $16,000 for 38 weeks of work as a teacher.

It is obvious the administration wants to keep the salary schedule secret, just as the administration fought to keep student records secret. The board apparently agrees with the administration that the public has no right to know. If not, why the delay in making these facts public?

Now is the time to clear up several facts of the recent salary negotiations. That the last contract negotiations were a public relations disaster is easy to see. All one has to do is look at the 3,000 some petitions gathered by the teachers' union. The public, denied information by the administration policy of secrecy, was anxious for any information. The teachers' union supplied the information. The board came out as unreasonable and lost the support of the community.

1 —The salary schedule, days worked, time worked, sick days, business days, etc., summer school pay, sabatical leave, extra pay, etc., should be made public.

2 —A contract was to be given to the superintendent. What happened to it? Why was it not written? If it was, what is in it? To the public it appears the superintendent, with the car and money, received approximately a $5,400 increase this year.

3 —With the talk of a referendum, this may be a good time to make public the amount of the administration expense accounts.

After all, the public has a right to know. They are expected to pay the bills and they should expect the board to account for the money.

Gerald J. Lewin

As a former board member, I accept my share of the responsibility for what has happened during the past year. I also reject the standard administration answer that anyone who criticizes is not "education minded," meaning if you don't agree with us you are against education.

Gerald J. Lewin
Schaumburg

(The above letter was written to the Dist. 54 Board of Education and read at the November 2 meeting. Before anyone comments how bad things are in Dist. 54, ask yourself has my board of education published the above information. If not, write and ask them how soon they will make the salary schedule, etc., public. The teachers' union that claims the wage and fringe package is too low should be leading the demand to make this information public.)

'Paper Bags Are Best'

Recently the people on the west side of Des Plaines were told that we are on the new city garbage progam and we were informed that we are to use their standard plastic or paper garbage bags.

When I questioned the public works department seven times about the availability of paper bags, I was told "we didn't think anyone would want to use them." Someone does and hopefully many more will feel the same.

Plastic bags do not disintegrate, and in 200 years our landfill sites will contain little else but plastic, the plastic bags the city prefers we use will remain. Des Plaines garbage is not burned, but if plastic is burned, poisonous fumes are given off from the plastic.

I have been using wet strength, commercial paper bags which are approximately the same cost as the plastic we are told to use. These are available from the Runge Paper Co. in Franklin Park, but I am sure they could be purchased somewhere nearer home.

When you use your "more convenient, more sanitary" plastic bags, think of our environment and that we will leave them for our descendants hundreds of years from now.

The above information is from the Federal Government Environmental Protection Agency.

'Harper Needs Off-Campus Space'

Thank you very much for the Herald editorial, "Harper Needs More Classrooms," which appeared in the Wednesday, October 18 issue.

The need described in the editorial, the lack of adequate on-campus facilities to fully serve the community's educational requirements, is a very real one.

Your editorial is very helpful in encouraging public thought and discussion on the steps which Harper College might take in being more fully responsive to serving the northwest communities.

Mindful of these concerns, Harper administraors are seeking ways in which we can more fully utilize additional facilities both on and off the Palatie campus. It might be helpful to point out that Harper presently offers classes at three hospitals, two firehouses, six high schools, a junior high school, an elementary school, and at Woodfield Mall.

In recent months, college courses have also been held at two private business plants, a military installation, and two motel-hotels.

Again, my thanks for your helpful editorial.

'Walk For Jim' Successful

To say "Thank you" for all the help given seems so inadequate.

When the idea of a Walk for Jim originated, we knew the success of it would depend on the publicity received.

Mr. Alan Akerson, Ms. Mary Houlihan and others of the Mount Prospect Herald staff deserve much praise. Their kindness and untiring efforts were greatly appreciated. With the extensive coverage given our committee, we had over 700 marchers.

There are so many who deserve a vote of thanks, including the Mount Prospect Bureau of Emergency Preparedness, Forest View Athletic Boosters, Forest View High School officials, St. Raymond's, Salvation Army, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights Police Departments and local merchants too numerous to mention. The list could go on and on.

A special thanks to all the beautiful people who walked for Jim. To see all those youngsters, so eager and willing to help, was most inspiring.

To the parents of all the participants who aided with transportation, thank you.

At this time we have no idea how successful the Walk was in terms of money. This figure will be published as soon as it is available.

On behalf of the neighbors for Jim, again I say thanks.

George McGovern: Why He Lost Election

Down Campbell Street, about two blocks from our Arlington Heights office, they're taking the posters out of the windows in the McGovern-For-President office. No longer will George McGovern and Ed Frank smile beneficently down on passersby on the street.

The fate of the McGovern headquarters, ironically enough, is that a well-known tax-assistance firm will resume its occupancy of the office. That firm has alternated its occupancy with that of the headquarters for the campaigns of striking IBEW workers (1968), Gene Schlickman (1969) and Adlai Stevenson (1970).

This year's tears are gone and posters are coming down. With them, the inevitable question is, what happened to George McGovern?

President Nixon, that's part of what happened. The President ran on his record, which convinced most voters he had done a creditable job as President. Inflation and the war are bad, voters often reasoned — but aren't THAT bad.

Tom Wellman

But it seems to this reporter that there was little if anything the average voter could find in McGovern to support on Tuesday. There are three factors, I feel, that contributed to the Election Day conclusion:

—McGovern failed to understand this country's revulsion with radicalism, and its general satisfaction with life as it is.

To the average homeowner, McGovern's anti-war philosophy sounded like the words of those more violently and dramatically opposed to the war.

Also, people change slowly, and they do not sacrifice material prosperity for the unknown. And McGovern was a man to be feared as a representative of the unknown, some reasoned.

—The Watergate "morality" which McGovern espoused sounded like election rhetoric—and voters are notoriously suspect of high-sounded rhetoric.

McGovern's charges may have had considerable credibility to them, but who wants to hear a man who seems like a minister deliver such rhetoric? Humphrey's pragmatism would go down more easily than such morality, it seems.

—There's always been a twinge of the liberal-intellectual elite about McGovern. He's seemed to be uncomfortable as a "man of the people," the flesh-pounding Humphrey who's at ease with his friends at the American Legion Hall or at the corner bar.

And to some McGovern proved it during the convention, which was loaded with well-educated intellectuals and very few members of minority ethnic groups.

People, it seems, are now wary of the Arthur Schlesingers and the other professors who flocked into the public spotlight ten years ago. Now, it seems a man needs an identity with the guy down the hall or across the street.

Eagleton? His departure didn't make any difference; McGovern would have lost anyway. In the end, McGovern's defeat boiled down to one simple statement: He made us nervous.

'Pity' For America

For the past months, as a volunteer for McGovern, I have canvassed and campaigned in the 72nd precinct of Wheeling Township. Having a deep commitment to Senator McGovern, I walked and re-walked this precinct, taking along two pre-schoolers in the heat and cold. Therefore, I do not come to this point without considerable feelings.

I want to say to the 104 people of this precinct and the other Americans who chose the hope of bringing America back to its original goals and morality, I commend your insight.

For the 314 people of this precinct and the others who voted for Nixon, I have resentment.

For all of us Americans, I have pity. Those who voted for Nixon have poured us all a bitter cup. A cup which must be taken up. Some may drink of it enthusiastically, some hesitatingly, some stoically. As for me, I will spit out each gulp.

Word A Day

Business Today

by FRANK SLUSSER

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, in the "peace rallies" of recent months, has reflected an about-face in Wall Street reaction to U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Trips of presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger for secret peace talks with Communist negotiators in Paris this year generally sparked rallies on the New York Stock Exchange. They helped lift the Dow Jones industrial average — a widely followed barometer of blue chip stock movement — from 894.72 on Jan. 25 to 984.12 on Nov. 3.

This is in contrast with market reaction in February, 1966 when President Lyndon B. Johnson met with South Vietnamese leaders in Honolulu and there were words of peace. The Dow then fell around 7 points over a period of several days. Conversely, when on Feb. 8 Johnson said the United States would continue to back the South Vietnamese, the Down moved up 4.12 to its all-time high of 995.15.

In the interval, Vietnam was a variable market factor, never out of the picture entirely, but weighing as an influence according to war developments of the moment and other news factors.

IN TERMS OF THE Dow, market reaction was delayed when the Tet offensive began Jan. 29, 1968. The average dropped a little more than a point the first day, but in the next two sessions fell more than eight points. Later uncertainty resulted in a dragging market, with prices dropping a bit of their own weight. On March 31, 1968, Johnson went on national television to announce he would not seek reelection and at the same time he said he would halt bombing of North Vietnam. He urged the Communists to enter peace talks. The next day, Monday, the stock market exploded. Volume on the NYSE swelled to a record 17.73 million shares since surpassed and the Dow average of 30 of more than 2,000 listed stocks shot up 20.63 points. The following Thursday, however, Martin Luther King Jr. was assassinated, sending the market belatedly lower.

On April 30, 1970, Nixon revealed he had sent combat forces into Cambodia for the first time. The stock market, in terms of the Dow, reacted with a minor loss.

But on May 4, 1970, students at Kent State University reacted strongly, resulting in the death of four students. The next day the Dow average plunged 19.07 points for its worst loss since President Kennedy was killed on Nov. 22, 1963.

WHEN NIXON revealed a new Vietnam peace plan on Jan. 25, this year, the North Vietnamese blasted it. The market moved lower that day, but two days later rallied for a gain of more than 10 points on the Dow.

Kissinger's secret trips intrigued the stock market.

"If I had bought on news of Kissinger's trips I could have made a fortune," said Robert Johnson, analyst for Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis.

On July 6, a UPI report saying the Soviet Union and China were pressuring Hanoi to reach a settlement on the war as soon as possible sent the Dow up 18 points on an interim-day basis. It closed with a gain of around 5 points on the day. But initial reaction to the story showed how Wall Street felt about peace in the crisis.

During the last week of October this year, Nixon revealed a cease-fire agreement had been worked out with the North Vietnamese. The next week, the Dow average advanced 37 points.

A big question now is what market reaction will be to actual conclusion of the war — or failure to reach that conclusion.

Seat Belt Alert System Works: GM

A recent survey indicates that the seat belt warning system now being installed on new cars has increased motorists' use of seat belts, reported General Motor President Edward N. Cole.

Speaking to the Alabama Safety Council, Cole said a month-long survey involving almost 7,000 cars in Michigan found that 42.6 per cent of occupants in cars with the warning system were wearing their lap belts.

"This is an appreciable increase from the 15.2 per cent recorded for cars without the warning system," he said.

The system, required by a federal safety standard in all cars built since Jan. 1972, sounds a buzzer and lights a warning signal on the instrument panel if the lap belt of either the driver or a front seat passenger is not buckled when the car is shifted into a driving gear.

"Next year, with the advent of the starter interlock system that will prevent the driver from starting his car if front occupants haven't buckled up, there is hope for even greater usage and more lives saved," he said. This interlock system will be required by federal standards on all 1974 model cars and will apply to both lap and shoulder belts.

GENERAL MOTORS has endorsed the federal government's effort to make use of automobile seat belts mandatory because it is the "quickest, best, and most economical means to improve the protection to the motoring public — right now," Cole said. The Department of Transoprtation has proposed uniform traffic laws which, if adopted by the states, would require wearing f both lap and shoulder belts.

"The value of seat belts in saving lives has been confirmed to a degree by some statistics from Australia, where all states have laws requiring motorists to use their seat belts," he said, noting that two states reported decreases in fatalities of 22 and 25 per cent for the first six months of this year.

General Motors is continuing to work on development of passive restraint systems, including the air cushion, but Cole said that "even with successful testing and development, installation of air cushions on all new cars as standard equipment is several years away, and it will be more than a decade before all cars on the road can be equipped with the system."

Personal Finance

by CARLTON SMITH

Of all sad words of tongue or pen, a couple of the sadder are "manpower glut."

They mean that you've invested a lot of time and money in education and training for a certain line of work, and suddenly you find nobody needs you, simply because there's a manpower glut — too many people with your qualifications, excellent though yours may be.

It doesn't have to happen. Before making any career decisions, every student (with the help of the family) would do well to look at the long-range forecasts on employment opportunities and manpower supply in the various job categories. Forecasting techniques have been refined to the point of considerable accuracy.

AS AN EXAMPLE, look at the case of the thousands of young men and women preparing themselves for teaching positions 8 or 20 years ago.

Teachers, at that time, were in such demand that one with good credentials could almost write his own ticket. The "baby boom" of earlier years was flooding classrooms with ever-increasing numbers of students. Federal grants to education were plentiful. Teachers were, finally, being well paid.

But anyone looking at the forecast might have anticipated what was about to happen. Here were some of the ingredients going into the national pot:

—The number of college graduates more than doubled in the 1960-70 decade. Two-thirds of the increase came between 1965 and 1970.

—Professional and technical employment (meaning college grads) was increasing at twice the rate of the nation's total employment. Teachers accounted for more than a fourth of this increase.

—Professional - technical employment kept rising until 1970, when it hit a peak and then leveled off. Most of those empty job slots had now been filled.

—At about the same time, the population curve for those of school age hit its peak, and leveled off.

PREDICTING THE outcome of all this was almost as easy as adding up a column of figures. By 1971 the demand for teachers hit a 20-year low. There were 300,000 available, and only 19,000 new jobs to fill.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics had predicted the situation, with some accuracy, as early as 1964.

What's ahead for the '70s? The forecast says that by 1980 our schools will have churned out 9.8 million job seekers with university degrees, from bachelor's to Ph.D. The economy will need only 9.6 million of them, according to BLS economist Michael F. Crowley. Evidently there are going to be some soft spots in employment for the grads.

Want to study the detailed forecasts, to see what the outlook is in some particular area of employment? Ask a reference librarian to help you locate the material. Next best, visit any local Department of Labor office and ask for assistance. Finally, write the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D.C., for a list of Bureau of Labor Statistics publications, and take it from there.

New Food Store In Wheeling

A new Dominick's food store will open in Wheeling tomorrow. Located at 550 W. Dundee Rd. in the Lynn Plaza Shopping Center, the store will be the 47th in the chain, headed by Dominick DiMatteo Jr.

In addition to highlighting displays of general merchandise, there will be a "Neptune's Cove" displaying fresh and frozen fish. If customers desire, fish purchases will be ground to order.

There will be lighted parking space to accommodate 600 cars. The store will be open until midnight, seven days a week. Kenneth O'Brien is the store manager.

According to DiMatteo, "This is one of the finest stores we have recently opened. It is one of the most modern food stores in the Wheeling area and includes equipment and facilities that will appeal to all home makers. While we think that we have included all the desirable features of a modern food store, changes will be made as we learn that our customers want something added or changed."

Dominick's Finer Food Stores are a subsidiary of Fisher Foods, Cleveland, Ohio, and are listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Radiation Monitoring Pact Signed

The State of Illinois and the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) recently signed a contract for a cooperative program of environmental and effluent monitoring in and around several licensed nuclear facilities in Illinois.

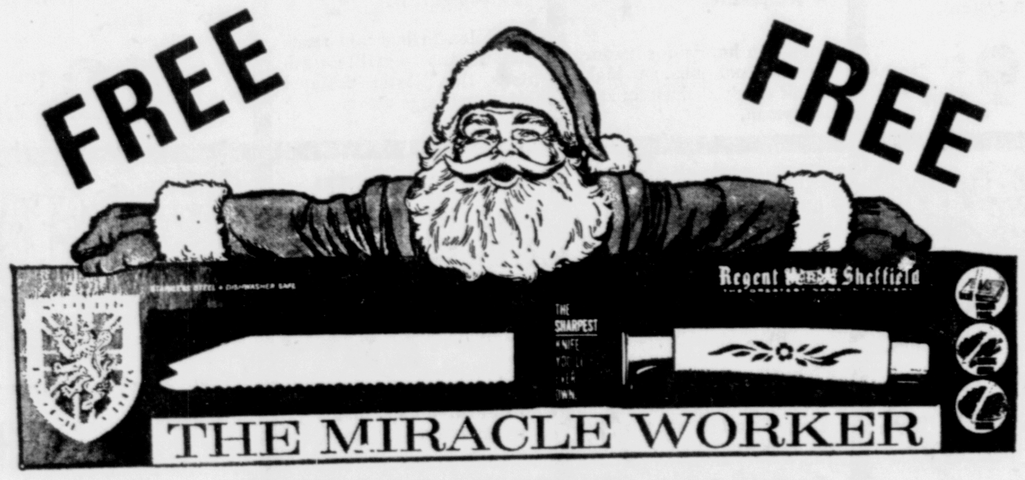

The purpose of the contract is to provide independent measurements of radioactivity in effluents and the environment and to provide reasonable assurance that licensees' effluent analyses and environmental measurements are valid.

Under the contract, Illinois and the AEC will plan and carry out the program in and around nuclear plants. The activities will include both collecting and analyzing samples, and measuring radiation levels from releases of radioactive effluents.

Programs will be undertaken at the sites of Commonwealth Edison Co.'s Dresden Nuclear Power Station, Units 1, 2 and 3; Zion Nuclear Plant, Units 1 and 2; Quad-Cities Station, Units 1 and 2; and General Electric Co.'s Midwest Fuel Recovery Plant.

Religion Today

by Rev. Lester Kinsolving

In churches throughout the nation this month, parishioners will be hearing a variety of versions of essentially the same message, which might be entitled: "The Sermon on the Amount."

For November is in many denominations the time of the "every member canvass," or annual campaign for church members to sign pledges of regular financial support — on which local, sectional and national church budgets depend.

Some of the techniques of this annual campaign — especially from diocesan or national levels — are indeed questionable. They have been incisively critiqued by a Philadelphia pastor, Rev. Tom Edwards of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, in the suburb of Chestnut Hill.

Rev. Edwards expressed his disgust with the attempt of his denomination's national headquarters to rationalize the Episcopal church's current financial catastrophe (which led to the recent terminating of half of the entire national headquarters staff) as due to inflation or recession.

(Somehow, there was no such effect upon such denominations as the Southern Baptist Convention. But then the Southern Baptists have not carried on such programs as the Episcopal funding of violent black and Chicano militants with church money.)

REV. EDWARDS also deplored a particularly insidious reaction when parishioners complain about such funding:

"Opponents of the war complain that they have no choice but to pay for a war they detest, and they admit that if they could, they would withhold their taxes. Yet when people in the church do this, they are accused of 'disloyalty,' 'flight,' 'fascism' and so forth."

In regard to another sleazy technique whereby church members are asked to tolerate "only a small percentage" of their donations being used to fund people "who if they had their way would stand this society on its head," Edwards notes:

"There is no use trying to disguise the taste of castor oil in the orange juice — that only turns people against oranges."

Episcopalians, he pointed out, "are put in the position where they have but one choice: either support the whole program, or, in effect, get out of the church."

PERHAPS NOWHERE has this technique been more vividly demonstrated than during a recent lecture given the clergy of the Diocese of California, in San Francisco, by the denomination's ranking prelate, Presiding Bishop John E. Hines of New York.

Bishop Hines was asked about his recent use of Episcopal Church-owned General Motors stock to try to pressure GM into withdrawing all its operations from South Africa. (In striking contrast to his strong denunciations of the white Apartheid government of South Africa, Hines admitted to the clergy that he has yet to speak out against the black racism of Uganda's brutal treatment of Asians. But the ultimate cop-out came from the denomination's Executive Council, which, instead of speaking out against the Uganda government's massive deportation of Asiatics, resolved itself in support of their resettlement.)

How, asked the Rev. Gordon Griffith of Berkeley, Calif., does his stockholder's pressure on GM differ essentially from those who use their financial support of the church to protest Bishop Hines' own national church policies?

"There is a difference between a stockholder's relation to management and a church member's relation to God," replied Bishop Hines.

(This righteous rejoinder evoked the usual claque of frenzied clapping from assorted clergy loyalty oafs.)

BUT AFTER the brief question period (following the speech Hines advised the assembled clergy would be "a few minutes" — in actuality 46 minutes) the Presiding Bishop was asked whether his statement did not amount to equating his national programs with God.

The nation's ranking Episcopal Bishop was in the process of formulating an answer, when his response was quickly and angrily interrupted by San Francisco's Bishop Chauncey Kilmer Myers — who led Bishop Hines out of the hall.

Earlier, Hines had startled the clergy by remarking that he is the "worst administrator" of any Episcopal Presiding Bishop in history.

And after this meeting, some clergy observers concluded that Bishop Hines had demonstrated his point.

Oswald: "The 'nothing' play is any play which can only cost you a trick. It differs from a bad percentage play in that a bad percentage play will win on occasion."

Jim: "I see you are leading up to a hand where there are three ways to play the trump suit in a slam contract. The bad percentage play is to lay down the ace and try to drop a singleton king. This will gain a trick for you the 13 per cent of the time that the singleton king is back of the ace. It breaks even the 13 per cent of the time that the singleton king is in front of the ace and it loses the 37 per cent of the time that the guarded king is in front of the ace."

Oswald: "The 'nothing' play occurs when you miss king-10-small as with today's hand. When actually played, South won the heart lead in dummy and played a low spade. East played the seven and South finessed the jack. West showed out and South had no way to avoid the loss of a trump trick as well as the ace of diamonds."

Jim: "Had South led dummy's queen of spades and won with the ace if East played high he would have been able to go back to dummy and finesse against East's 10-spot. The queen play would guard against the 3-0 break."

It's Elk Grove By A Mudslide, 9-0!

Grenadiers Top Huskies In Super Bowl III

by JIM COOK

The returns of the Mid-Suburban League's Championship Super Bowl III election were tabulated within 32 seconds.

It was all the time incumbent Elk Grove needed to capture a 9-0 "mudslide" triumph in the balloting at Hersey Friday night before 5,000 fans.

The 48-minute mud-slinging campaign was decided in the first quarter when Elk Grove parlayed a spectacular 66-yard sideline run by all-state quarterback candidate Jeff Stewart with a safety on Hersey's ensuing possession — all within a span of 32 seconds.

The final score identically reflected Elk Grove's 1972 unbeaten record based on a solid platform of rushing and defense. Hersey, winner of the North Division primary, fought the Grenadiers to a near-statistical standstill, but couldn't recover from the early Elk Grove blitz and suffered its first shutout in 27 games.

The contest was billed as a potential high-scoring affair — Elk Grove boasting an average of almost 38 points per game and Hersey a mean of over 20-plus.

But the water-saturated Husky gridiron made footing, at best, treacherous and playing almost hazardous. The ball, in fact, was put into play from a towel which protected the leather pigskin from the standing moisture between the 20-yard lines.

Hersey, the Mid-Suburban's passing power, was quickly discouraged from its apparent game plan by the penetrating rush of Grenadiers Rich O'Leary, Keith Moore, Tim Hurley, Jeff Steinbock and Gary Lundeen.

And when Husky junior quarterback Mark Zakula did manage to find time to slosh in the pocket, he usually found his receivers blanked by the coverage of Elk Grove linebackers Bob Streich, Dan Mincey and Frank Bavaro and deep back Stewart, Tony Tringali and Dan Weadley.

The decisive 32-second fireworks began with the lighting of the fuse midway through the opening period. Following an exchange of punts during which the teams generally felt each other out, the scoring came fast and furious.

Elk Grove marched to a first down in its initial possession on a 13-yard sweep by Stewart that pushed the ball up near the 50. However, the unyielding Hersey defensive front wall of John Brown, Mark Bliz, Bruce Koelling, Larry Friedrichs, Scott Robertson and Marty Friel refused Grenadier league rushing leader Jeff Schroeder the luxury of conquering the mid-field stripe on successive carries.

Bill Butler planted his foot into the first of seven Grenadier punts, (he punted only 15 times in eight games previously) and the Huskies took over on their own 30.

As may have been expected from the Joe Gliwa-coached club, Zakula come out throwing, or trying to, anyway. He failed to connect with Mark Conard on his first attempt, slipped under the rush of Steinbock, Streich and Dick Radzis for a loss of nine the second time and was Streich's personal victim for another three-yard sack on his third attempt.

The Elk Grove defensive effort spurred the offense (the best rushing contingent in MSL history) which took command on the Grenadier 34 after Hersey's Mark Kleiner boomed a 49-yard punt.

Stewart, the same masterful magician that had paced the Grenadiers to a 7-3 upset of Hersey in Super Bowl II, didn't hesitate to unveil why he is the only quarterback in conference memory to chalk up anywhere close to 600 yards (629) rushing.

The 6-3, 180-pound senior belly-faked the ball to Schroeder who was immediately dumped by the keying Hersey defense. But Stewart still maintained control and scooted wide to the sideline.

The elusive option-executioner never broke stride while tight-roping 66 yards unmolested into the end zone for the game's only touchdown. Gary Adams was perfect on the point-after and the game appeared headed for its bizarre scoring expectancy.

Hersey's Tom Vetta struggled with the wet, ensuing kickoff at the Husky 17 where, once again, Zakula tried to syncronize the passing game.

The Grove's defensive rush still hadn't subsided and as Zakula bought a few more precious seconds by retreating on first down, Grenadiers Streich and Schroeder snowed the scrambling quarterback in the end zone for a safety.

The scoring was completed at 6:13 of the first quarter, but while the zeroes kept piling up on the board, the remainder of the contest was far from fruitless.

Hersey embarked on its longest sustained drive late in the period and appeared destined to slash the already uncomfortable Elk Grove lead.

Scott Miesfeldt, Zakula's first successful bullseye and Mark Conard, a dangerous, side-stepping fleetback, produced Hersey's initial first down at the Husky 31. After Zakula sneaked for two, Miesfeldt ripped for seven as the first quarter ended.

Zakula plunged for another first down at the 43 and a Grenadier penalty and Miesfeldt's five-yard gainer stationed Hersey in Elk Grove territory at the 40.

The Huskies ran into a fourth and five situation at the 35, but early gambling paid off as Zakula hit Conard on a 22-yard pressure strike at the Gren 12.

Miesfeldt slanted for five and an offside infraction by the eager Grenadier linemen pushed the ball down to the three. Hersey's reliable fullback got the call on the ensuing play, but Steinbock and Mincey were waiting and cut Miesfeldt down for a two-yard loss.

A third-down Zakula pass was slapped incomplete by Stewart, and on fourth and

Coaches Agree: Tringali 'Hurt' Hersey's Offense

by KEITH REINHARD

Despite the talk all season long about the great size of Elk Grove's team, it was a little Grenadier getting the raves in the subdued Hersey locker room after Super Bowl III Friday.

"He seemed to come out of nowhere," sighed one Huskie coach.

"He hurt us more than anyone else," added another.

The subject of their comments was a 5-7 dynamo named Tony Tringali, now a veteran of two consecutive Mid-Suburban League championship teams after Elk Grove's 9-0 victory in the 1972 playoff tilt.

Hersey mentor Joe Gliwa substantiated the assessment of the 160-pound two-way back by adding, "If I were giving out the game ball, he's the one who'd get it. We knew we were going to have to put up with Stewart. But we certainly didn't anticipate some of the defensive efforts Tringali came up with against us. He put on one fine show."

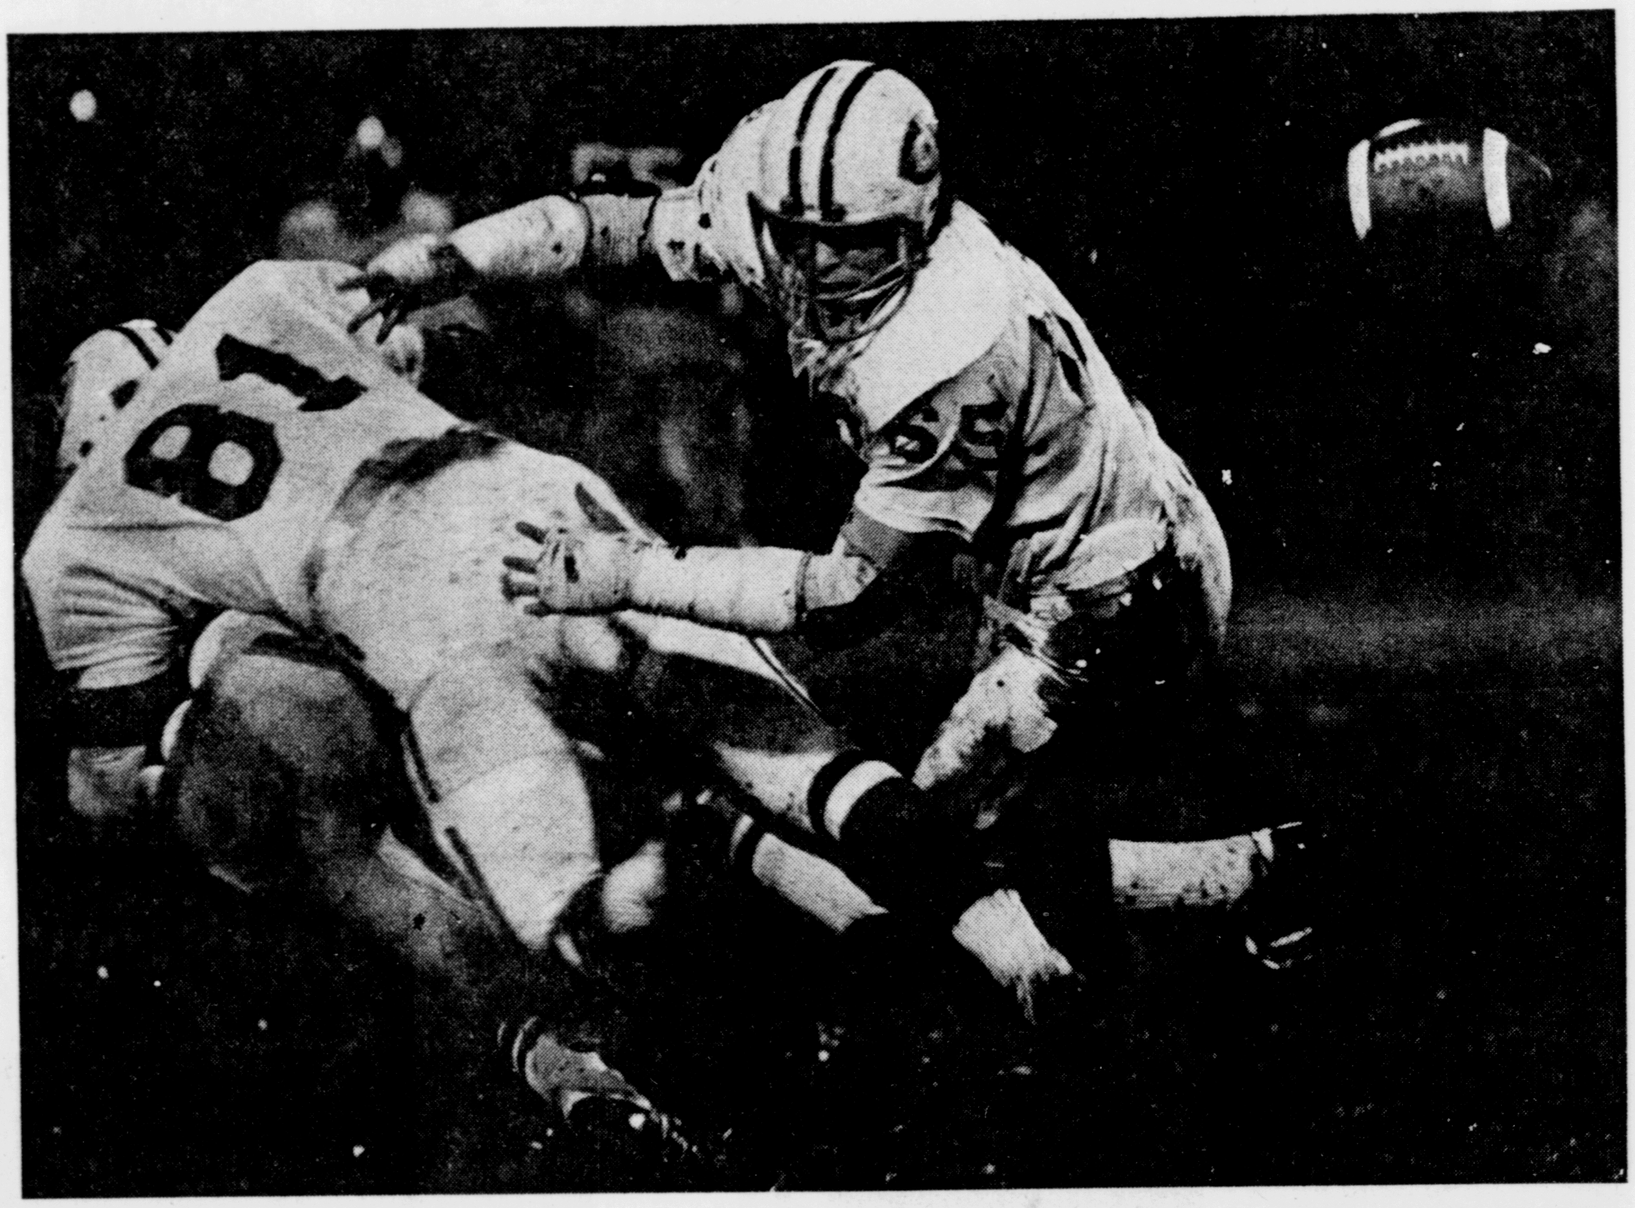

In addition to his ball carrying and blocking assignments on offense. Tringali scooted all over the muddy field on defensive to bring down Huskie runners. While most of his actions may have been unobtrusive to the casual spectator, no one could have missed him in the second quarter when he halted Mark Conard at the three-yard line to avert what appeared to be a certain score for the hosts.

"That play definitely was a crucial one for us," nodded Gren helmsman Don Schnake. "A Hersey TD then would have changed the whole complexion of the game. We could afford to be more conservative with a nine-point lead but that would have put them right back in the game."

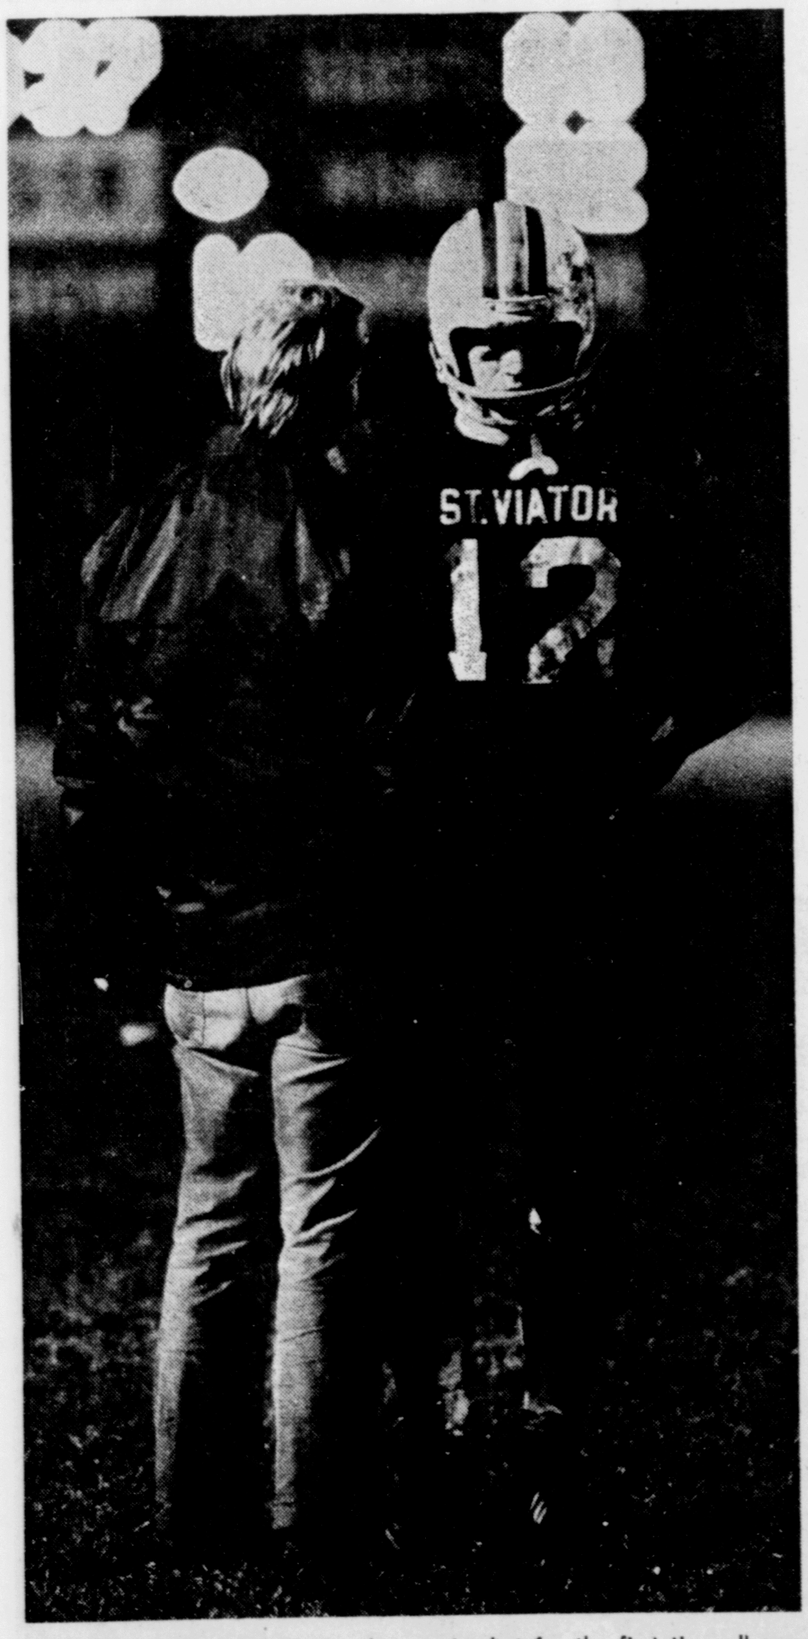

On the big play Conard headed for the left corner of the goal on fourth down from the five. Had he only reached the two it would have been first and 10. Tringali materialized at the last second to bring him down all alone just three short yards from paydirt and the Huskies never came as close again the rest of the chilly evening.

The incident and a penalty call in the later going were the two plays coming chiefly to mind for Gliwa. The normally effervescent Huskie pilot was confined

WHAT NEXT, COACH? That's what Stan Bobowski, St. Viator quarterback, seems to be asking head coach Jim Lyne in the second quarter of Friday night's clash with St Francis de Sales. The Lions led 2-0 at this point but for the first time all year, their offense couldn't get going on a very sloppy field and they absorbed a stunning 6-2 setback. (Photo by Larry Cameron)

Quagmired!

Mistakes, Mud Sink St. Viator, 6-2

by LARRY EVERHART

The gloomy atmosphere on the west side of the Forest View football field coincided vividly with the shocking chain of events that had just transpired on the gridiron.

The evening, which had been cold and damp like so many other Friday nights this fall, seemed a thousand times colder and damper. Long minutes after the final gun, a high school couple sat motionless in the stands, a girl weeping and clinging to her boy friend.

Stunned fans quietly shuffled toward the exits through the puddles, with only a muffled under-the-breath muttering occasionally breaking the silence. Football players — young men who hadn't known what it was to lose in 1972 — wore glazed looks in their eyes, still unbelieving.

Later, in the locker room at St. Viator High School, you could have heard a pin drop. Not even the dripping of one shower of the clattering of one pair of cleats would yet interrupt the hush — a good 30 minutes after game's end.

First, it might be good to get the hard, cold facts out of the way — and they were just that on the northeast side of Arlington Heights Friday night.

St. Viator's Lions, with eight straight victories and a high state ranking, had its bid for a perfect season ruined in a 6-2 upset at the hands of the St. Francis de Sales Pioneers, a hard-nosed bunch from near the Indiana border.

The virtual quagmire that was the Forest View field had afforded very little in the way of offense. Touchdown chances were almost non-existent. Each team had one. St. Francis de Sales cashed in. St. Viator did not.

The Lions took a 2-0 lead in the second quarter when standout guard John Andejeski broke through to nail Pioneer quarterback John Hooker in the end zone before Hooker could scramble or throw the ball away.

The Lions had a golden opportunity near the end of the first half to expand that lead when a 14-yard run by Tom Maher took them to the St. Francis five-yard line. On the next play the Lions were penalized for clipping. Little did they know at the time that it would cost them the game.

In the fourth quarter, disaster struck in the form of a fumble. It was only the third fumble of the game and the only one lost by either team — remarkable considering conditions of the field.

But it was all the visitors needed. An inspired Pioneer bunch took over on the St. Viator 18. Suddenly, a St. Viator line that barely budged the rest of the night began having big holes opened in it. Three straight runs right into the middle by Dan Chavka — the last for nine yards — resulted in the only touchdown the guests would need.

St. Viator had the ball three more times and stirred a surging of hope on the first play after the ensuing kickoff when Maher broke a 41-yard gain to the St. Francis 26. Only the last possible tackler tripped him up. (Maher, only a junior, was the game's only offensive back who stood out with 84 yards in 15 carries).

But the Lions could not get their sputtering attack — best in the Suburban Catholic Conference until Friday with 173 points in six games — revved up again. Precious seconds ticked away until finally it was over.

What can you say about a perfect-season dream that died?

Well, you can say a lot of things. You can say the field was too muddy to provide a legitimate test; that it equalized the offensively-weak Pioneers with the usually-explosive Lions . . . that St. Francis' defensive linemen were too big for St. Viator to whip . . . that maybe, just maybe, the Lions were looking ahead a little to their championship showdown this Friday against Marmion Military Academy.

But these would be excuses, and the Lions are not the kind of team to make excuses. Head coach Jim Lyne refused to do so afterward.

Indeed, there is no need for excuses on St. Viator's part. They're still 8-1 (how many teams can say that?). And they're still champions of the tough East Division of the SCC. (Holy Cross also has just one loss, but the Lions get the nod on the basis of their earlier 14-9 victory over the Crusaders).

Besides, the St. Viator defense was its usual magnificent self. You can't fault it too much for an 18-yard touchdown "drive." The offense, understandably, couldn't run or pass very well with a soaked pigskin in ankle-deep mud.

Lyne and his coaching staff accepted the defeat stoically and quietly. Offensive line coach Pat Mahoney summed up the feeling of the whole school when he said, managing a grin, "I've got faith. We'll be back next week."

Lyne remarked, "I hate to make excuses, but the mud really hurt us. We ran a couple of wide plays for good gains that could have gone all the way on a dry field.

"I know it was the same for them as for us and they desrve a lot of credit. We did play well against Notre Dame on a wet field. but this mud tonight was even more slippery and wet than usual.

"It was worse than it looked. I walked on the field and it almost covered my shoes completely."

He added, "Their defensive tackles were real big and we just couldn't handle them. You can't run off tackle against that team."

He didn't add — but might have — that not much else was possible in all the mush. Although it didn't rain a drop Friday night, the turf was completely saturated from unseasonably abundant rain in recent weeks that was made worse by more precipitation during the day Friday.

"We gave them the football with our backs to the wall and they took it right in," on their five, but that big penalty killed us. You sure can't blame our defense. We couldn't have asked for more from them."

St. Francis' fine coach, Dick Marin, was as calm afterward as if he had just won a game of gin rummy from his wife — though this hardly indicated his feelings.

"We had thought we were a team to contend for the championship but we took ourselves out of it (with their second loss) when we played poorly against Notre Dame (in a 14-0 defeat) last week. Some people in our area were saying we didn't have it and we wanted to prove something.

"St. Viator is a real fine team and I still think they deserve to be No. 1 (he didn't say whether he meant in the conference or the state). I hope they beat the heck out of Marmion.

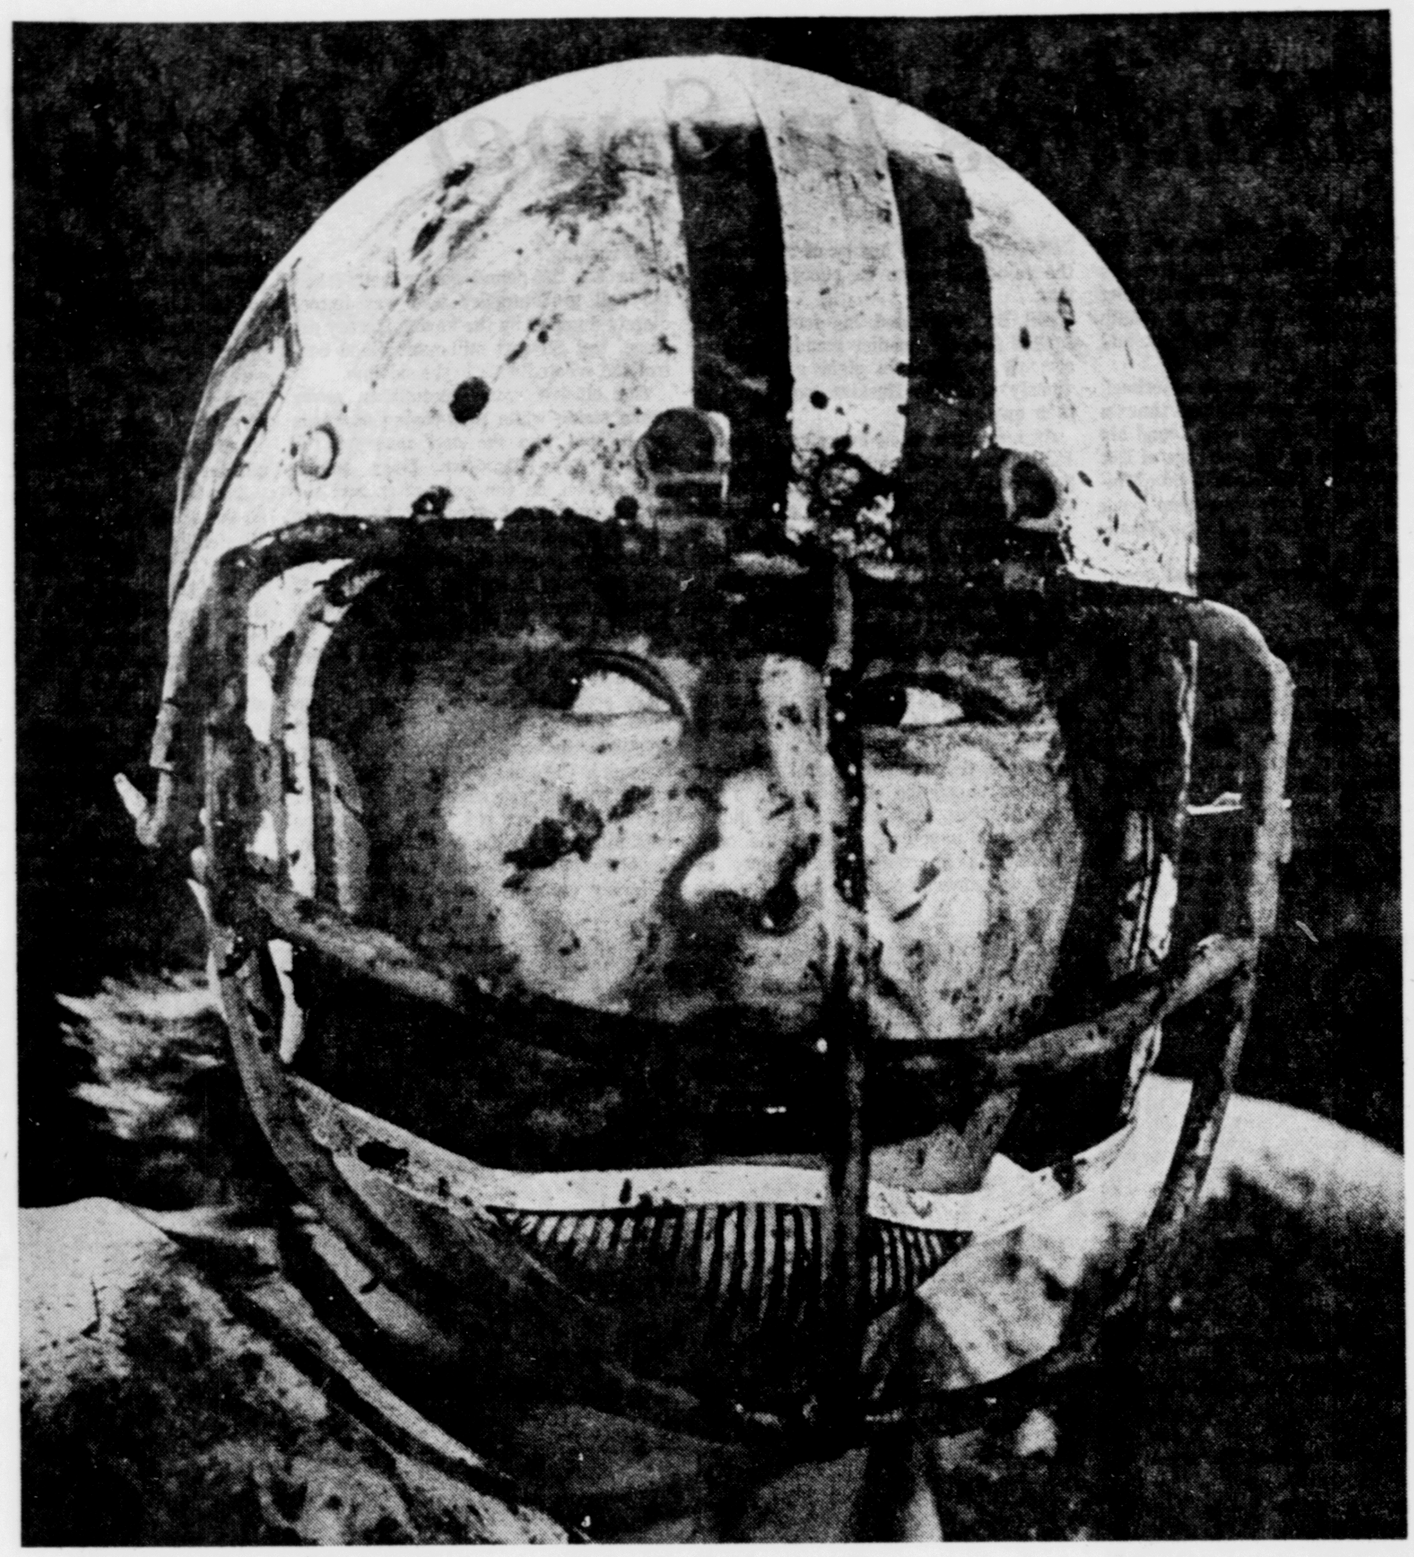

"Our school is in an area of steel workers. They don't go for basketball or track too much. But give them a contact sport like football and, I'll tell you, they really want to play.

"We kept telling them all week that they still had just one thing going for them — pride."

That turned out to be enough.

tnree from the five, Conard was denied a touchdown on a turning-point, open-field tackle by 160-pound Tringali.

The shocking developments of Elk Grove's scoring blitz and Hersey's inability to put the ball in the end zone from the shadow of the goal line set the stage for the entire unproductive second half, most of which consumed the median of the field.

Hersey came out armed after the intermission with both a leakproof defense and a bag of tricks on offense. Gliwa inserted flea-flicking, halfback-option passes back to his quarterback, end arounds and double reverses into Hersey's already multi-diversified offense.

Elk Grove, though, was effective against them all. With the help of key infractions — including roughing the kicker and disputed intentional grounding raps against Hersey — succeeded in posting the shutout, the first in the three-year Super Bowl history and the Grenadiers' third straight in their banner year.

The intentional grounding charge was particularly damaging to Hersey's rallying effort since it backed the Huskies out of potential scoring range after a first down had been established at the Elk Grove 19.

Conard was chiefly responsible for Hersey's deep penetration when he bolted 41 yards on a counter play and just missed going all the way. Elk Grove's Weadley and Stewart prevented the score.

Despite his taxing double duty on both offense and defense, Stewart emerged as the game's individual star. The incredibly quick, poised and fluid Grenadier co-captain carried 16 times for 143 yards (six times for 124 in the first half) in keeping the Hersey defense guessing between him, Schroeder and Tringali as prime ball carriers.

Ironically, there were no fumbles in the mud-marred contest and execution by both teams truly resembled championship game caliber.

Hersey played well, but Elk Grove will tell you it wasn't the "Well Bowl." It was the Super Bowl.

FRANTIC STAN Bobowski, St. Viator quarterback, shows his scrambling technique as he turns upfield on a broken field, eluding would-be tackler John Babec, a defensive standout for St. Francis de Sales. Tringali Keys Grove Win but not despondent over his club's third straight loss to the Grove in less than two years, noting, "I was very pleased with our kids, even in defeat. They played a tremendous game against an exceptionally fine team and they were nothing to be ashamed of. I think even Elk Grove will be willing to concede that."

The penalty call Gliwa dwelled on occurred early in the fourth stanza, thwarting another deep penetration that once again might have changed the complexion of things.

"I'm not faulting the refs. It was a difficult play to call. But we still don't think it should have gone against us."

On that occasion the Huskies had just picked up a first down at the Gren 19. Mark Zakula dropped back to pass and was picked up by a charging Grove lineman. As he went down, he threw toward the sidelines to no obvious receiver, the flag went down and all of a sudden the Huskies were on second down back at the 40.

"Conard was out there for that pass," Gliwa explained. "Admittedly it was over thrown but I think the officials were looking at (Kevin) Pancratz, thinking he was end man. Conard was behind Pancratz and actually not that far away from the ball."

Whatever the case, it was ruled intentionally grounding and on the next play Dan Mincey intercepted a pass to quell the threat.

Earlier in the contest Huskie Marty Friel had speared a Stewart aerial and these two interceptions turned out to be the only turnovers in the contest. For Elk Grove, that meant no lost fumbles for the first time this season.

"It couldn't have happened at a nicer time either," chuckled Schnake, who's been concerned about miscues ever since their opener against Addison Trail back in September. "I didn't make a big thing about it this past week. We kept the talk about fumbles at a low key pitch. The kids were just as aware of their potential costliness as I was."

Continuing along the same line of thought Schnake added, "I usually do all the chewing out I'm going to do during those three weeks before the season starts. After that the players know when they do something wrong. I don't have to harp on it."

"At least it's been that way with this group. They've been just a fantastic bunch to work with. In a way I'm kind of sorry for them that the season had to finish up under such conditions. They've been working awfully hard together since the end of summer for this moment. That muddy field took away a lot of the things we like to do."

"I'm not trying to take anything away from Hersey. They gave us our two roughest go's this season." Schnake went on. "The fact that they didn't fold when things were going all our way in the early stages is to their credit. I'd also have to say this team probably wasn't as big or physically talented as Hersey's team last year, so they had to make up for it with pure determination to come up with the championship performance they did."

Harper At Western Illinois Today

Harper College, frustrated the past four games with alternating ties and losses, is hoping to end its season in the "W" column this afternoon at Macomb.

The Hawks of Coach John Eliasik will end their very challenging schedule against the Western Illinois University junior varsity at 2 p.m.

"That's the thing we're trying to shoot for — a winning record," says Eliasik, whose team is right at the .500 mark with a 3-3-2 record. "This would be achieving one goal of the season."

Harper is coming off a tough 14-14 tie against Oakland, Mich., but the team has had an extra day of practice in which to improve.

"It went pretty good," says the Hawks' coach of practice. "Actually, it was one of our better scrimmage sessions this week — good hitting and not many mistakes."

Harper, hurt by lack of numbers and injuries this season, will be without the services of two key performers throughout the year — Kevin Sullivan and Bob Jorgensen.

Sullivan, a tight end who leads the team with 26 catches for 333 yards and five touchdowns, will miss this game as he did last game because of a bad knee. His absence was really felt against Oakland.

Jorgensen, a starting quarterback in some games this year and presently the No. 2 signalcaller to Ken Leonard, has been sick all week. Besides subbing for Leonard, Jorgensen is the team's top punter. He also will be sorely missed.

Western's starting jayvee teams are made up almost entirely of freshmen as is Harper's. Only one sophomore — halfback Blake Loveless (5-10, 185) — will start on offense with two defensive backs in the secondary.

Two Western defenders played in the Herald area as preps — Jim Leopardo and Steve Blake. Leopardo, formerly a fullback at Elk Grove last year, is a starting defensive tackle. He's 5-11, 190. Blake, who played at Forest View, is a 5-11, 180-pound safety.

"He started out the season there," said jayvee coach Rob Bixby of Leopardo as a fullback. "Then we moved him to defensive tackle. He's got a better chance of playing there."

Another Forest View player who could play against Harper is fullback Dave Schneider (6-2, 190). Presently, Jerome Brown (6-2, 200) is the No. 1 fullback in Western's triple option.

Western's backfield is headed up by Loveless. In last week's 14-13 loss to Southern Illinois, Loveless raced for over 100 yards. He has accounted for three touchdowns, tops on the team.

Paul Bowen, a 6-2, 180-pound quarterback, "runs it (triple option) very efficiently," according to the Western coach. Bowen was hurt last week and didn't see any action against Southern.

Eliasik is happy Bowen's starting in place of John Highland. This former standout quarterback for Joliet is a real passing threat, the kind of thrower Harper fears. Highland, a junior, was the signalcaller last week in the near miss win over Southern.

Harper has been primarily running teams in the first eight games. The fine Hawk defense has allowed 931 yards rushing and only 251 yards passing. Eliasik would like to keep it that way.

Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different

A girl can dream, can't she?

This time you're absolutely going to save something out of your paycheck. But, then, you really do need that pantsuit, a new coat and, of course, that perfume Eric likes so much.

Before you know it, the money's gone . . . and all you've got saved are your dreams.

That's why the Payroll Savings Plan is such a good idea for a single girl. When you join, an amount you specify is set aside from your check and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. And, it's all done before you get your check—so you can't help but save.

And then you'll find those Bonds a solid investment for the future, if your dream man ever gets serious.

And if he doesn't—well, at least you'll have a little travel fund stashed away. Who knows who you might meet on that wonderful cruise?

Either way, U.S. Savings Bonds can help a girl keep dreaming . . . and every girl needs to dream.

LEADING JUNIOR MISS CONTESTANTS in drill exercises is Joyce Kowalewski, physical education instructor at Rolling Meadows High School, who is choreographer of this year's local Junior Miss Pageant sponsored by Paddock Publications. Eighteen high school senior coeds are competing Nov. 26 for the dual title of junior miss and an opportunity to enter the state pageant. Altogether $1,700 in scholarship money will be awarded at this year's pageant.

Stevenson Urges Quick Action On Flood Projects

The implementation of a $26 million flood control project in the Northwest suburbs was given a boost last week when U.S. Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D.-Ill., called for swift action in the carrying out of the plans.

Stevenson warned that delay in implementing projects such as the one dealing with flooding in the upper Salt Creek Watershed "increases the chances of successive flooding and severe hardship for the residents of the area."

The senator asked the U.S. Soil Conservation Service in Washington, D.C. to speed up plans for the five-year federally funded project for Salt Creek, which would provide for the construction of six floodwater retention basins and the dredging of the creek. Flooding caused extensive damage this year to communities in Cook and Lake counties.

STEVENSON SAID that "while flood control construction cannot be expected until the middle of next year, every delay in implementation of the plan increases the chances of successive flooding and severe hardship for the residents of the araa."

The recent floods, he added, caused property damage estimated at $10 million and created serious health hazards because of the contamination of wells which supply drinking water for the 100,000 persons living in the area.

In a letter to the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, Stevenson said, "I am sure you are aware of the gravity of this situation and will agree that this project must not suffer any further delay. I urge you to do whatever you can so that the project can receive authorization in the early weeks of the 93rd Congress."

Stevenson said the working plan for the project and an environmental impact statement must be approved by 10 state and federal offices before funds for the project can be authorized by the Senate and House Public Works Committees.

Wheeling Woman To Be On TV Show

Cyndi Hinman, 50 Glendale Ave., Wheeling, will be a guest on the NBC television show, "The Who, What or Where Game," Nov. 27 and 28.

Mrs. Hinman won a total of $765 in her two appearances on the show hosted by Art James. The program was taped in advance for showing this month.

18 'Miss' Hopefuls To Display Talent

Dancing, singing, instrumental solos and dramatic readings will be talent displayed on stage for the local Junior Miss Pageant being held Nov. 26.

Eighteen finalists chosen from the original 72 high school senior coeds who first entered the pageant this fall will be competing for the dual title of Paddock Publications Junior Miss. Each of the two winners will receive a scholarship of $500 and be eligible to compete in the state pageant.

The two-hour program that will culminate with the crowning of the two junior misses by Miss Barbara Jean Gorgol, 1971-72 Paddock and Illinois Junior Miss who also was third runnerup in the national contest, begins at 7 p.m. in the auditorium of Rolling Meadows High School. The pageant is open to the public free of charge.

EMCEES FOR THE evening will be Pam Wier, Paddock Publications and Illinois Junior Miss of 1968-69, and Larry Bressl, president of the student council at Rolling Meadows High School. Music will be provided by the Rolling Meadows High School Jazz Band under the direction of Leonard King.

Senior coeds with "B" averages or better and currently attending high schools located within the circulation area of the Paddock Heralds, were eligible to enter. The 18 girls scoring highest on personal interviews with the judges last month were named finalists.

IN ADDITION to talent, the contestants also will be judged on poise and appearance and physical fitness.

Joyce Kowalewski, physical education instructor at Rolling Meadows High School, is choreographing the show. She currently is rehearsing with the finalists who will present an exercise routine to the song, "That Happy Feeling."

THE JUNIOR Miss Pageant is held to find the most well-rounded and personable high school senior coed. It is not a beauty pageant.

The local pageant sponsored by Paddock Publications has produced five Illinois state title holders in the past seves years.

In addition to the two $500 scholarships awarded, the two runnersup will each receive $250 and additional scholarships of $100 apiece will be awarded to the contestant with the highest scholastic achievement and to the one displaying the most talent.

Major sponsors of this year's pageant are 1st Arlington National Bank, Lattof Motor Sales, Ladendorf Motors and John Mufich Buick Company.

Morton Pontiac is a sponsor of the event and donors are the Chicago Northwest Suburban Pan-Hellenic Association, the first National Bank of Mount Prospect, Persin — Robbin Jewelers, Northwest Trust & Savings Bank and the Mount Prospect State Bank.

Summit School Fund Drive Set

Summit School, a non-profit school for children with learning disabilities, will begin a $300,000 fund drive this month to purchase permanent facilities in Dundee.

The school, founded in 1968, is temporarily located in the buildings of St. Monica's Catholic Church, Rte. 25, Carpentersville.

The board of directors has taken an option on the Dundee Professional Building at 611 Higgins Rd. for $105,000, and on the lot just west of this property for $37,500.

Cost of renovating and remodeling the buildings is estimated at $150,000.

The option on the professional building property must be exercised by Dec. 31, said James R. Williams, chairman of the board of directors. "We hope to collect the balance of the moneys needed to complete our building program through two or three-year pledges," he added.

A foundation has guaranteed matching funds on a dollar to dollar basis, which means the $300,000 total will be reached if the public contributes $150,000.

A SECOND foundation has agreed to equip and furnish a new diagnostic center in the new school facility, Williams said.

Summit School serves the communities and school districts of Barrington, Bartlett, Carpentersville, Cary, Crystal Lake, Dundee, Elgin, Elk Grove Village, Geneva, Glen Ellyn, Hanover Park, St. Charles, Streamwood, West Chicago, Wheaton and Winfield.

Students are accepted on the basis of psychological, neurological, and educational tests. The individualized programs include academic work, motor, language and speech instruction.

The typical child is one who has normal intelligence but whose progress in school is slow, perhaps due to perceptual problems or other learning difficulties.

Tuition to the school is $2,585 for a nine-month school year. Parents unable to pay the tuition are provided assistance through various means. Currently, 88 students are enrolled.

Attention Homeowners!

COME INTO "BIG MONEY"

HAROLD M. ARBUCKLE

SENSIBLE BORROWING UP TO $7500 (secured by real property) could be the soundest money management decision you make this year. Property values continue to increase and chances are that your home is valued at a lot more than your present mortgage. HOMEMAKERS can show you how to convert this difference (which is your "equity") into BIG MONEY right now.

NO POINTS • NO COMMISSIONS
NO BROKERS FEE

Just think what you can do with up to $7500. Add on an extra room or patio. Group your debts and clean them up all at once, which may leave you with ONE smaller monthly payment that your budget can more easily handle (almost like getting a raise in your paycheck). Take care of the "BIG MONEY" needs at the same time. Please telephone me or visit our office now.
